FOUR SLAIN IN TENNESSEE ELECTION

Williams, California Negro, Wins 400-Meter Olympic Race

CLEAN SWEEP MADE BY U.S. IN SPRINTS

Briton Second, Luvalle Third; Appendicitis Bans Smallwood

BERLIN, (AP)—Completing an all-American conquest of the Olympic sprint events, Archie Williams, Oakland, Calif., negro, won the 400-meter championship today.

The dusky Californian clicked off the distance in 46.5 seconds—three-tenths of a second slower than the Olympic and world record of 46.2 set by Bill Carr at Los Angeles four years ago.

Arthur Godfrey Brown of Great Britain finished second, as Jimmy LuValle, Los Angeles negro, placed third in the six-man final.

Harold Smallwood, University of Southern California sprinter from Ventura, Calif., was stricken again early today with appendicitis and underwent an emergency operation, preventing him from competing in the semi-finals and finals today.

The Briton, who was regarded as the Americans' most dangerous rival, lived up to expectations. He took the lead around the first turn and built up a four-meter margin through the first half.

Williams stretched his legs as if they were elastic, closed in quickly on the fleet Brown. Taking command at the last turn, Williams showed in front by two meters entering the last stretch and barely stood off successive challenges by LuValle and Brown.

Williams' victory, gained by two-tenths of a second, gave the United States her third sprint crown and represented the sixth Olympic gold medal captured by American negroes.

Previously, Jesse Owens won the 100 and 200-meter sprints and the broad jump for the first "Olym-

Relatives Meet After 50 Years

S. O. Bond, president of the Salem college at Salem, W. V., saw his uncle, Lee W. Arnold, 844 North Bush street, for the first time in 50 years when he arrived in Santa Ana this week.

With Mrs. Bond and Ruby Cunningham, Roberta Cheneworth and Mary Van Horn, teaches near Salem, the college president is staying here while visiting many points of interest. The party has been entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold and daughters, Mary Arnold and Mrs. H. A. Stewart, 315 East Sixteenth street during their stay in Santa Ana.

British, Nazis Warn Spain

BOTH OPPOSE VIOLENCE ON NATIONALS

Execution of Four Nazis Called Murder; Ship Bombards Gijon

By the Associated Press

Great Britain and Germany took a hand today in the Spanish civil war with vigorous protests against the treatment of their nationals by both rebels and loyalists.

The United States government yesterday asked Spanish authorities in Madrid to protect American property in the area of the revolt and asserted indemnification would be expected for any damage.

Execution Protested

The execution of four young Nazis near Barcelona was called "murder" by a foreign office spokesman in Berlin.

Protests were lodged in Barcelona with Leftists by the Germans against the deaths, and another complaint was made to Madrid authorities over the "unprovoked shelling" of a German steamer by a Spanish destroyer.

Both sides were warned by Great Britain that suitable steps would be taken to prevent the endangering of neutrals by either Leftists or Rightists fighting in the area of Gibraltar.

Gijon Bombarded

A rebel warship renewed bombardment of Gijon, Spain, where liberal government officials had warned 2500 political hostages would be executed by firing squads if the shelling did not cease.

The boom of cannonading also was heard from the direction of Oyarzun.

Victorious advances by loyalist troops in the Guadarrama mountains north of Madrid were reported today along with successful assaults against insurgents in the south.

No confirmation was obtained for a broadcast statement that rebels were on the outskirts of the capital.

The German naval command was said to have re-distributed Nazi ships in Spanish waters to protect German nationals or evacuate them if necessary.

Germany Takes Rap

The leftist French press accused Germany of aiding the Spanish rebels with airplanes, munitions and men.

One French newspaper said a German ship left Hamburg July 31 with 28 bombing planes and other materials for the rebel forces. Another said former King Alfonso was scheduled to arrive in Berlin tomorrow for a conference with Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

French political factions were torn by an argument over the question of aiding Spanish leftists.

On the Spanish war front 1800 rebels were reported jailed at Sastago, only 37 miles from Zaragoza, principal northeastern concentration point for the Fascists. Columns of reinforcements continued to march north from Vicalvaro, the government's concentration point just outside Madrid.

68 Japanese Die During Typhoon

TAIKOKU, Formosa, (AP)—Sixty-eight Japanese seamen were believed drowned off the Pratas island today during a typhoon which wrecked nine vessels. A Japanese destroyer was ordered to the scene for rescue work.

Will Smith Make Boston Speech Opposing F.D.R.? Ely Says Yes; Al Says No

DETROIT, (AP)—Joseph B. Ely, former governor of Massachusetts, said today that Alfred E. Smith would make a speech in Boston opposing the re-election of President Roosevelt.

However, when informed in New York of Ely's announcement, Smith issued the following statement:

"There is no authority for any statement that I will speak any place." He would make no further comment.

Former Governor Ely, attending a conference of about 30 Democrats, formerly prominent in the party, here to plan a campaign of opposition to the administration, said definite plans for Smith's address had not been made.

He said the former Democratic presidential candidate would make the speech under auspices of his friends in Boston, "If there were no other auspices."

Ely said emphatically he would support Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee, in the campaign and would speak for Landon. Sterling E. Edmunds, St. Louis attorney, acting with James A. Reed, former Democratic senator from Missouri, issued the call for the meeting here.

CRASH FATAL TO WOMAN

Orange County Resident Dies of Injuries in Long Beach

Mrs. Delia Kelley, 52, of Los Alamitos, died yesterday at the Long Beach Community hospital as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident at Long Beach on Wednesday.

She was injured when her car crashed into a trailer at a point near Anaheim boulevard, Long Beach.

Unconscious and in a critical condition from an auto accident skull fracture, Blas Salazar, 35, Garden Grove, battled for life in the county hospital today.

His car collided Wednesday afternoon with an auto driven by Mrs. James Sutherland, Anaheim. His brother, Severo, 29, was still in the hospital today, but was

JOBLESS WIN RELIEF FUND

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The long, turbulent session of the Pennsylvania general assembly ended at dawn today with a $45,000,000 revenue program for unemployment relief as its major achievement. Tired legislators joined jobless pickets in the noisy finale.

Crying "Victory! Victory!" several hundred unemployed men and women ended their two-weeks siege of the senate gallary, while the lawmakers they heckled waved goodbye from their seats below.

Lindy Finds Out How to Make Beer

COPENHAGEN, (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh spent five hours in a Copenhagen brewery today—but he didn't drink any beer.

Seeking a respite from three days of hard work at the biological institute which is partly financed by the brewery through a foundation, the American flier asked to see the plant, a non-profit institution. The colonel spent two hours studying the art of making beer.

RIOTERS GET JAIL TERMS

Will Suspend Sentences For Those Who Return To Mexico

Conviction of 10 Mexican strikers on rioting charges was appealed today to the fourth district court of appeal as Superior Judge James L. Allen offered to suspend sentences of those who will submit voluntarily to deportation.

Clarence Rust, defense attorney, gave notice of appeal for each defendant as sentence was pronounced. Sentences ranged from one year in the county jail and fines of $500 for three, to 10 months in the county jail for seven others.

Transportation Offered

Rust arranged for families of the defendants to confer at the county jail this afternoon to consider the deportation offer. Judge Allen said he will provide transportation for both strikers and families if they consent.

"Some of us are property owners, and if the county would like to buy our property, we would be glad to sell," Francisco Espinosa, one of the defendants, told the court through an interpreter.

Those drawing the more severe sentence were Apolinar Mantoya, pointed out by witnesses as the one who struck Sam Hunziker, a picker, with a cable during a riot at the Earl Tucker grove; Primo Rodriguez, alleged to have been ringleader of the riot, and M. Arias, who maintained a belligerent attitude through the trial and today's sentencing proceeding.

Makes Protest

Asked if he had any legal reason to offer why sentence should not be pronounced, Arias stormed:

"Yes. The jury found us guilty, without sufficient evidence." Then as sentence was pronounced, he said: "Do whatever you want."

Several others said "I'm not guilty."

Mantoya declared:

"No, I don't think it's legal, because I didn't do anything, but I was found guilty."

Rust this afternoon was making arrangements for copies of the transcript to be sent to the higher court on the appeal.

NEWPORT GETS 2 CRUISERS

Adding to interest in the annual Tournament of Lights celebration at Newport-Balboa Aug. 15 was the announcement by Mayor H. H. Williamson today that two naval cruisers, Trenton and Marblehead, will take part in the event, which annually draws more than 75,000 spectators.

Mayor Williamson received a telegram today from the commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, stationed at San Diego, granting a request for the ships. Williamson was advised to contact Rear Admiral J. C. Townsend, commander of cruiser division two, who is on board the U. S. S. Trenton, also at San Diego

WERNERS ARE INDICTED IN RUM PROBE

Couple and Weinblatt Accused of Bribe Solicitation

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Erwin P. Werner, former city attorney, and his politician wife, Helen, were free on $1000 bail on an indictment in a liquor license graft investigation.

Joseph Weinblatt, real estate and oil man, also was accused yesterday by the county grand jury of soliciting a bribe, grand theft and conspiracy to commit each of these offenses.

The indictments charged that last May Mrs. Werner, pudgy, blonde political figure, agreed with her husband and Weinblatt to take $250 from Miss Gertrude M. Davey, Hollywood cafe operator, for the purpose of "influencing" an official in the state liquor control administration.

Further indictments are expected Tuesday when the grand jury resumes its probe, District Attorney Buron Fitts announced. The Werners are to be arraigned that day.

Miss Davey, whose liquor license was revoked by the state board of equalization, said Weinblatt introduced her to the Werners, who asked her for $500 to get her license restored. She said she paid $250 before breaking off negotiations.

The Werners told a state as-

F. D. R. IS TO MEET RIVAL

HYDE PARK, N. Y. (AP)—At an informal press conference announcement, President Roosevelt disclosed today that he would invite Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, his rival presidential candidate, to a conference of drought state governors probably early in September.

He expects to hold the conference somewhere in Iowa as one of a series of four. Specific dates and places have not yet been picked.

Outlining plans for his drought state trip, which he said would start Aug. 25 or 26, the President casually mentioned that probably in Iowa he would confer with the governors of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahome and Missouri.

Rich Indian, 70, Takes a Bride

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A picture of Hehskahke, 70-year-old wealthy Indian missing from his Osage county farm, was identified today by Justice of the Peace Harry H. Hamilton as that of "a jolly old Indian I married Tuesday evening to a white woman about 40 years old."

Woman Pincher Sought as Car Sale Is Lost

Ouch!

A friendly pinch lost a sale yesterday for a Santa Ana used car salesman whether or not he actually did the pinching.

Mrs. Vera Fox, route 4, Santa Ana, told police she had gone to a used car establishment with the intention of buying a car. As she got out of the car, she said, the salesman reached over and pinched her.

Police questioned the salesman, who insisted he didn't pinch. He said he might have brushed against Mrs. Fox as she alighted from the car, but he very, very definitely does not pinch customers.

Mrs. Fox declined to sign a complaint.

'Longies' Shock Laguna

"Phooie!" exclaims Bill Walter, lifeguard captain at Laguna Beach. The gunnysack bathing suit worn by Pat Shattuck, left, doesn't appeal to him. He'd rather rescue Lois St. John, right, whose suit is a little more so, or less so. Which would you rather pull out of the water or look at on the sand?

Bather Dressed!

Girl Amazes Art Colony

It's shocking!

More than that, it's amusing. Its armholes are small, its front is prim and high, and its skirt is ample. It even has a back in it. Somebody started a rumpus down at Laguna Beach about the vast amounts of torso, leg and limb being fung to the breeze along the beach. A group of business and professional women asked the city council to enforce an antique ordinance decreeing the number of inches in a bathing suit skirt.

And now it turns out that Laguna is shocked; but not at the modern beach scanties.

Miss Pat Shattuck thought she'd find out, and yesterday tripped out on the strand, bedecked in a bathing suit (not swimming) suit of 1910 vintage. And what a hullabaloo! Lots worse than that in the city council meeting Wednesday night. The crowd was positively gawking.

In fact, and this is pretty authentic, Laguna doesn't give a whoop about legs and limbs on the

FIGHTS CHARGE OF INSANITY

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Calm and self-possessed, Mrs. Margaret Fillmore, 36, testified at her sanity hearing today that money belonging to her had been taken by her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby.

Mrs. Shelby, also the mother of Mary Miles Minter, former film actress, signed the insanity complaint which brought about the hearing.

After Mrs. Shelby, Mrs. Fillmore, three psychiatrists and others testified, Mrs. Fillmore agreed to go to a mental sanitarium until the hearing is resumed 30 days hence. Mrs. Shelby testified her daughter drank excessively. But the latter denied this. The psychiatrist said she had been under a severe nervous strain and recommended she be paroled to a sanitarium.

Rescue 213 Insane Women in Flood

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Colorado state hospital authorities sought today to accommodate 213 insane women patients moved from an annex on the bank of the flooded Fountain river to the already crowded main hospital building.

The women were evacuated by trucks after high waters had cut a wash into hospital grounds yesterday and swept away two cottages on the river bank. The Fountain river still ran almost bank full today but was subsiding slowly.

TROTZKY MAY BE OUSTED

Norway Suspects Him Of Revolutionary Activities

OSLO, Norway. (AP)—Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian Communist, faced possible expulsion from Norway today.

Authoritative sources indicated the wandering former Communist leader would be sent from the country immediately if it were established that he had broken his promise not to indulge in propaganda or any other phase of revolutionary work in Norway.

The threat was voiced during an investigation by police of a document allegedly stolen from Trotzky by young Norwegian Nazis who said they were attempting to prove his revolutionary activity.

At the same time the state's attorney declared the Nazis will be punished "for trying political methods patterned after certain other countries."

Trotzky, undisturbed, spent the day fishing at Christiansand.

Authorities were reported to have accused him of engaging in political activities which he promised to abandon when Norway offered him asylum after his deportation from the Soviet.

Their inquiries, it was said, were based on two alleged activities:

Reception of a number of foreign visitors in recent weeks.

Frequent telephone conversations with Paris during the period of the "folded arms" strikes when more than 1,000,000 French workers refused to carry on their regular jobs.

FAMILY GUN FIGHT FATAL FOR PAIR

Other Fatalities Occur In Battles at Polls During Primary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Election violence claimed the lives of four persons today, victims of fighting during yesterday's state primaries.

Two were shot to death in a fratricidal gun battle; an election officer was killed in an argument at the polls, and an aged farmer was stabbed by a neighbor.

Democrats gave the gubernatorial nomination to Gordon Browning, former congressman and critic of the present state administration, by a large majority.

No Opposition

P. H. Thatch, Chattanooga lawyer, received the Republican gubernatorial nomination without opposition.

In 1744 of 2300 precincts Browning had 190,820 votes, Burgine Dossett had 75,766 and C. W. Wright of Oneida, had 4115.

U. S. Senator Nathan L. Bachman of Chattanooga, in his race for Democratic renomination, ran up a better than six-to-one lead over Dr. John R. Neal of Knoxville.

Relatives Shoot It Out

The only Republican race, a contest over the senatorial nomination, found Wayne Maddox of Huntingdon leading Henry N. Camp, jr., of Knoxville, by a substantial majority.

At the little community of Speedwell in mountainous Claiborne county, four blood relatives became involved in an argument over a sheriff's race and attempted to settle it with gunfire. Divided into two groups, they shot it out at close range.

Other Killings

Horace Russell, 60, a farmer, and his son, Albert Russell, 30, were killed. William Russell, 65, brother of Horace, and William's nephew, Charles Russell, were wounded.

At another precinct in Claiborne county, James A. Singleton, 52, an election officer, was shot during an argument. He died in a Knoxville hospital.

Near Hohenwald, a small middle Tennessee community, John Gray, a 55-year-old farmer, was stabbed fatally during an altercation at the polls. Another farmer was held in connection with the slaying.

KVOE PLEA FOR BLOOD SAVES BOY

A 2-year-old boy in St. Joseph's hospital lay near death. Only new red blood could save him.

An emergency appeal went shooting through the ether from KVOE.

"Blood for a dying baby! A life is at stake!"

Almost at once the appeal from the Santa Ana radio station was answered. Persons ready to give blood called in eagerly, anxious to give part of their life stream that life might go on for a little boy.

The offers came in swiftly. Soon 10 people had volunteered—then 20, then 30. Within 90 minutes 60 persons had phoned the radio station or the hospital.

"We'll give our blood!" they volunteered.

In a still room at the hospital, watched anxiously by his nurse and his doctor and his parents, little Daniel Laurant, son of Enrique Laurent, KVOE Spanish program director, lay gasping for breath, choked and weakened from his battle against pneumonia, while staff experts searched desperately for a donor with the right type of blood.

KVOE made its dramatic appeal for help at 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

By 4 o'clock three donors with

STERILIZING PENALTY IS ADVISED

Defendant May Offer to Submit in Hope for Leniency

Admittedly guilty of a statutory offense and facing revokation of probation as a result, Malcolm Nelson, 23, of Placentia, may submit voluntarily to sterilization, his attorney, Joel E. Ogle, said today.

Judge James L. Allen postponed decision on revoking a previous probation order on a burglary charge, for one week, in order to allow Nelson to consider submitting to an operation. Nelson pleaded guilty to the statutory offense last week, and today pleaded guilty to violating the burglary probation by the same act.

Nelson admitted today that he is unable to read or write, and can count "only to 300 or 400." He was unable to tell Judge Allen what number follows 556.

Should Nelson submit to the operation, his attorney will ask Judge Allen to consider that fact in deciding the penalty, it was indicated. Either a county jail sentence or a penitentiary sentence is possible.

EXTORTIONIST PLOT FAILS

EASTLAND, Tex., (AP)—An extortionist who threatened to "wipe out" the children of Samuel Butler, prominent Eastland Oil company official and brother of Gen. Smedley D. Butler, escaped a trap set today by federal and state officers.

Butler, following orders given by the extortionist, last night boarded a westbound Texas and Pacific train, accompanied by two railroad agents and one government official.

He had been advised that a verbal order to "throw out the money" would be given him between Eastland and El Paso. He had also been advised that he was to remain on the rear platform of the train.

Two blocks from the Cisco passenger station Butler heard the command and "threw out the money" in a brief case. Simultaneously, one of the officers threw a flare which lighted up the countryside. A young man was seen fleeing.

Officers who had been laying in wait for the extortionist searched in vain for him.

CHILDREN TO SHOW PETS

Dogs and other pets will have their day at the Santa Ana bowl Aug. 12, when Santa Ana playground supervisors under the WPA recreation project sponsor a pet show for youngsters who have attended the playgrounds this summer.

Showing the pets and judging for prizes will start at 3 p. m. next Wednesday. Their owners may come in costume, to compete for an award for the most amusing outfit.

Youngsters planning to enter pets in the affair are asked by Norman Paul, unit supervisor, to register with supervisors at their neighborhood playgrounds.

Further plans, prize lists and the names of honors will be announced in The Journal. Entries in the show may be made at the following playgrounds: Santa Ana bowl, Delhi, Fremont, Logan, Willard, Lathrop, Lowell, Franklin and Lincoln schools.

'Mix-Up Baby' Picks New Parents After 17 Years

It isn't often that anyone has the opportunity of choosing or changing parents, but that is just what happened to Louise Madeline (right), who was involved in a baby mix-up at a hospital at Atlanta, Ga., 17 years ago. She has now decided that her parents are Mr. and Mrs. John C. Garner of Macon rather than Mr. and Mrs. Daniel L. Pittman of Atlanta, with whom she had always lived. A court awarded her as a baby to the Pittmans in 1919 with the stipulation Louise might choose her parents when she became old enough. The disconsolate Pittmans are shown at the left looking at a picture of their lost "daughter." (Associated Press Photos) recovering from severe cuts and bruises.

An inquest into the death of Jack Watson, truck driver who lost his life in swerving his truck away from two cars full of children on the Coast highway Wednesday, was to be conducted this afternoon at the Gillogly Funeral home, Orange.

Three laborers, riding to work with their legs dangling from a truck this morning, were cut and bruised as a car collided with the rear of the truck. They were Max Henie, Don Pinix, and another man whose name was not learned by police. The truck, driven by R. Krahnke, was struck by an automobile driven by G. Crowell, who said another car had forced him to swerve into the truck. The third driver did not stop.

A car owned by George M. Dietrich, 202 West Santa Clara street, was slightly damaged last night in a collision at Sixth and Broadway. Driver of the other car was Joe Steele, 2525 North Park boulevard. Neither driver was injured.

Escape Injury

Autos driven by H. F. McKean, 714 South Parton street, and T. C. Finney, 941 West Bishop street, collided yesterday but no one was injured police were told.

Patrocarnio Cuaresma, 29, route 4, Santa Ana, and John B. Atwood, 18, Upland, were listed as drivers of automobiles which collided south of Santa Ana last night. Cuaresma, California Highway patrol officers were told, was backing out of a driveway. Neither was injured.

Jack Claybaugh, 18, Glendora, and Roy Gavett, Orange, were drivers of cars which collided last night on Newport road. Both cars were slightly damaged.

LIONS HEAR OF SHIPWRECK

Shipwrecked with 18 other sailors on a lava-and-limestone island 1200 miles out in the Indian ocean, living there for seven months on a diet of watercress, rabbit, and fish—

That was the experience described for members of the Lions club Thursday by Capt. N. H. Lorenzen, retired sea captain, who spent seven months marooned with other survivors of a shipwreck.

The ingenuity of Ole, the "ship's Swede," resulted in development of a cement factory, and the survivors were almost ready to set sail for a neighboring island on an improvised cement ship when they were rescued by a British ship.

Captain Lorenzen was introduced by Dr. L. C. Cameron, program chairman.

Lone Survivor Of Riot Case Arraigned Today

Dazed and apparently little aware of what was happening, Gregorio Delgado, the only one of 116 alleged rioters held for trial after a habeas corpus hearing last week, this morning was arraigned on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Delgado's attorney, Grover Johnson of Los Angeles, who directed the habeas corpus hearing, asked a jury trial for his client. It was set for Aug. 31. Free on $500 bail since the habeas corpus hearing of last week, Delgado was late to court this morning. Johnson reported the Mexican had understood the attorney would call for him, and that he had thought Delgado would find his own way to court.

Gray-haired and meek-faced, Delgado stood with bowed head as the charges were read.

PATERNITY OF TRIPLETS IS IN DOUBT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) Judge C. E. Chillingworth declined Thursday to rule on the paternity of 9-month-old boy triplets claimed by two men, and awarded temporary custody to the mother, Mrs. Louis Miller.

Litigants were T. J. Miller, West Palm Beach barber who married the mother several months after the babies were born, and Louis Pierre of Miami.

"Proper disposition of the case," the judge ruled, "does not require the court to now determine the paternity of these quite innocent children. For the present, at least, it seems clear that the welfare of the children would best be served by remanding them to the temporary custody of the mother."

ANAHEIM MAN SELLS YARN

Floyd McCracken, editor of the Anaheim Bulletin, this week gained attention as a writer of detective stories when his "The Case of the Cement Covered Box" was published in True Detectives Magazine.

Told in the words of Police Chief James S. Bouldin of Anaheim, the story relates the fantastic extortion plot of Robert L. Lufbery, Long Beach psychologist and printer, against Frank Baum and C. C. Chapman of Anaheim and C. C. McWhinney of Long Beach. The case was a sensation of 1929.

Mysterious notes directed the victims to spots where peculiar cement-covered boxes were hidden. In these, they were told, they should deposit money, then lower the boxes off the end of the Huntington Beach pier.

Chief Bouldin, District Attorney Z. B. West, Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins, and Sheriff Sam Jernigan finally traced the crime to Lufbery and obtained his confession. The "cement" on the boxes was a special substance which would dissolve and allow the boxes to float to shore at a previously determined spot, Lufbery confessed.

Court Scores Phone Burglars

"You'll never get ahead running around with no money in your pockets, drinking wine and beer, and going to see girls after midnight," Superior Judge James L. Allen advised two 19-year-old boys today.

The boys, Louis Ruzzamenti of Culver City and Harold LeRoy Quirk of Los Angeles, were sentenced to two years in the Preston School of Industry at Ione when Judge Allen denied probation on burglary charges. Ruzzamenti and Quirk testified they went to Huntington Beach one Saturday night to "see some girls," drank three quarts of wine and attempted to rifle a telephone pay station. They wanted the money for carfare home, they said.

Postals Tell of Tax Bargain

To remind Orange county property owners who are redeeming delinquent taxes on time payments that special "bargains" in delinquency payments will be offered in August, County Auditor W. T. Lambert dropped 1600 postcards in the mail here today.

During this month payments previously made on interest will apply to the principal sum of tax delinquency provided the entire delinquency is paid in full.

the right type of blood had been found. At 9 o'clock the desperately needed transfusion was made.

Today little Daniel is gaining strength, with the impetus of four ounces of blood from Gaylord Hick, 1411 South Ross street, a grocery clerk. David Dozier of Orange and Harold Bisner of Santa Ana stood by ready to help.

People had called from everywhere—all over Orange county—offering their help.

Drs. Harry C. Nelson and Newell L. Moore were the psysicians who fought desperately while the little boy's grip on life was slipping. They gave the transfusion that gave his life back to him.

It was the second time in two years that KVOE has sent the same desperate call for help through the air, and has assisted in saving a life.

Dozens volunteered last year when newsboy Freddie Carson, his paralyzed legs amputated, lay near death in the county hospital. Among the volunteers were the entire force of Santa Ana fire department. Freddie's life was saved in the same manner.

Delhi 'Mayor' To Leave Post

Delhi will have to find itself a new "mayor."

Not that residents are dissatisfied with the services of Matt Lujan, "mayor of Delhi" for several years. No, indeed!

But Lujan announced today that he is resigning from his position as head of the Mexican settlement's honorary commission. A new leader will be appointed by Ricardo Hill, Mexican consul at Los Angeles.

In announcing his resignation, Lujan said he would continue to be at the service of his people, although no longer an official.

ASKS JURY TRIAL

Accused of issuing a fictitious Check for $100 to J. E. Vinson, W. P. Bouvier today pleaded not guilty in superior court before Judge James L. Allen and asked a jury trial. It was set for Oct. 13, in department 3.

TREE VALUES APPROVED

The assessor's office values Orange county fruit trees at approximately twice as much as in any other county except San Diego, but Farm bureau directors aren't mad.

They decided yesterday they would make no protest, since land valuation seemed to them to be in line with tree assessments.

Economical usage of water will be studied by the bureau's water committee, which was directed to make a survey of county water supply and rates, to make recommendations later.

Embryo officers for county farm center forum organizations may be trained at night classes this fall, the directors decided in authorizing establishment of an "officers training school" setup under which members will learn how to conduct meetings, with possible instruction in public speaking.

An opinion on the new 1936-37 county budget was expressed by the board, but sent to the bureau's tax committee, which will draw up a statement of the Farm bureau's attitude on proposed county expenditures.

One hundred Farm bureau members who participate in a blanket compensation insurance fund will share $600 in 1935 rebates, the board ruled.

DELHI TO HAVE BIG FIESTA

Fiesta, as only those born to the tradition can celebrate it, will reign in Delhi Sunday, Aug. 16. The town's streets will be gaily decorated, and residents will turn out to welcome Mexicans from all parts of Southern California to their "jornada social."

The event is being planned to honor Bishop J. J. Cantwell, head of the Los Angeles and San Diego diocese. Mayor Fred Rowland, Santa Ana, has been invited to speak.

Approximately 500 persons are expected to attend and to take part in the singing and dancing and parade. The NYA boys' band is to play.

Ask $22,262 in Mortgage Case

Alleging that faiure of Scott and Borden, Inc., to file a release of crop mortgage which they had paid off ruined their chances to clear their property, D. F. Lenmer and Leah Mae Lehmer today started suit in superior court here to collect $22,262 damages.

They named Scott and Borden, Vincent W. Borden, T. V. Scott, and the Abstract and Title company as defendants. The title company the complaint asserts, accepted a mortgage release from Borden and Vincent, but later returned it without authority.

Whoosh! It's Getting Warmer

It was too cool to last!

After a two weeks' respite from heat, Santa Anans began unlimbering fans and slipping off coats today as the mercury kept up its climb beyond 90 degrees, which started yesterday when it topped the 92 marker at 2:20 p. m.

At 11:15 o'clock this morning, Knox and Stout reported a showing of 90 degrees, with promise of higher temperatures during the afternoon.

beach. What it wants is an ordinance about legs and limbs on the boulevards.

Lifeguards, sunbathers and swimmers agree that the beach is no place to wear too many clothes.

Too Many Legs

The business people agree that shops and the shopping district are the places to wear at least enough clothes. They have observed, they say, lots of objections to the expanses of persons along the streets and in shops. They feel it's immodest—and it detracts from the show-windows.

Captain Bill Walter of the lifeguard squad told the story:

"The only kick seems to be coming from the streets. We never have any objections on the beach, and people always seem to wear modest enough suits. Men wear trunks, and women wear enough to cover them where it's needed, and we get along fine."

Pat Gets Giggle

And talk about being shocked at the cutaway modern suits—that didn't happen at all. Various sizes and shapes of legs walked right along the sand and right along the streets yesterday. Nobody even blinked.

But when that black, baggy, bathing suit with Pat Shuttuck inside appeared, eyebrows lifted plenty. She giggled. The crowd giggled.

"Why the poor girl!" stage whispered an elderly matron.

"Do they really still wear things like that?"

Laguna has a step or two to take yet, anyway, before it can lay full claim to being the "Riviera of America." You ought to see what they don't wear along the Mediterranean.

DEATH CHARGE MADE TODAY

Alleged to have crushed Cecil Ray Trujillo, 4, between his auto and the porch of the child's home, Jose B. Maese, 36, Mexican of Irvine ranch, today was arraigned in superior court on manslaughter charges. The child died July 26.

At the request of his attorney, N. D. Meyer, Maese was granted until next Friday to enter a plea. Officers allege Maese was intoxicated at the time of the crash.

According to police reports Maese drove into the Trujillo yard in Delhi, where a birthday party was in progress. They said he backed his car suddenly into the side of the house after an argument with guests at the party.

Postal Employes Discuss By-Laws

With George O. Canfield, president, in charge, the recently-organized Orange County Postal Employees association will meet at 7 o'clock tonight in the Anaheim Knights of Pythias hall for a banquet and business session.

By-laws and constitution of the association will be placed before members for discussion and adoption. Unless amended, the articles will call for bi-monthly meetings at towns in Orange county, taken in alphabetical order.

Charles Schermerhorn and J. Glick, assisted by three other members of the entertainment committee, are arranging a program to follow the business meeting.

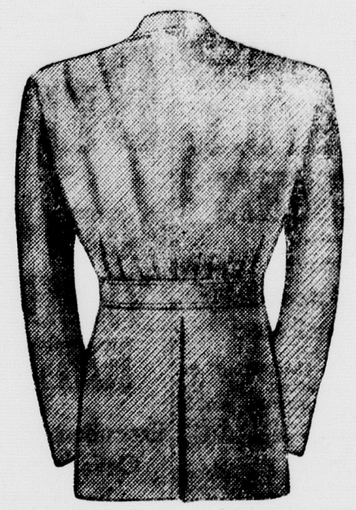

Buck, the dog star, has changed to his summer diet, eating four pounds of food daily instead of six.

ABSENT VOTERS GET BALLOTS

With the primary election still 18 days away 25 persons have taken out absent voters' ballots in Orange county, according to County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Of these, 12 have voted and deposited the ballots in the county clerk's office. Backs urged that voters who expect to be absent on election day vote in the office, thereby saving the trouble of finding a notary public who must attest to the voting.

Aug. 20 is the last day on which persons may apply for absent ballots, which must be marked on or before Aug. 25, the day of the primary election. They must be returned to the clerk's office by Aug. 31 in order to be counted.

WOMAN KILLS HERSELF AT TUSTIN

Gun Found by Husband Beside Body of Mrs. Maud Helt

Discouraged and tired of life after a two-month illness, Mrs. Maud Helt, 60, Tustin, took her own life yesterday as she fired a revolver bullet through her head, Coroner Earl Abbey said today.

The body was discovered by her husband, E. E. Helt, Tustin barber, who returned from work at 4:30 p. m. yesterday to find his wife dead on the enclosed porch in the rear of their home on West Second street.

A 32-20 caliber revolver lay by her side. The husband called a Tustin physician, who pronounced her dead.

No inquest will be held, the coroner said. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Smith and Tuthill mortuary.

Store Tax Is Topic of Debate

Starting as a selected subject assigned to W. H. "Ted" Blanding, the referendum on chain store tax which will be on the November ballot caused lively debate at El Camino Toastmasters club meeting last evening in the Doris Kathryn cafe.

William Gray vigorously defended the measure. Keen interest was shown. It was decided by members to have the topic debated at a meeting in September. Malcolm Macurda was toastmaster.

Others who spoke were E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist who told of his recent trip to the East coast and Canada; Fred McCandless, who talked about characteristics of a successful man, and Carl Sanborn who outlined methods used by banks in handling checks.

Critics were Glenn Tidball, T. D. "Ted" MacBird, Roy Coleman, Dale Griggs, Nolon Doss and Ernest S. Wooster.

LIBERALS RAP GREEK KING

ATHENS (Uncensored—By Air Mail to London). (AP)—Liberal Greek circles charged today that King George II broke a solemn promise of preserving constitutional government when he established Premier John Metaxas as military dictator.

This action, declared members of the Liberal party formed by the late Eleutherios Venizelos, will never be forgiven by many of his subjects.

These circles predicted a convulsive upheaval might result under the military dictatorship. Some even expressed the belief the one-time exiled king might endanger his throne again because of his connections with what they said was an unpopular dictatorship.

Seek 'Borrower' Of Newport Yawl

A seagoing thief who "borrowed" a freshly-painted 29-foot yawl from Newport harbor for a trip with a young lady was being sought today by sheriff's officers.

The boat, property of Thor Wahlberg, Fullerton, was stolen early this month and recovered yesterday by Coast Guard offices in Northern California waters. It was being returned here today.

POLICE REPORTS

Theft of a fountain pen and pencil from his car, parked in his garage, was reported by Van Dorn, 1319 West First street.

Two men tried to jump on his running board as he made a boulevard stop near Tustin, J. W. Putnam, San Diego naval officer, reported last night. He said he pushed the men and started his car, and they fell off. Police searched the neighborhood but were unable to find the strangers.

Prowlers were reported in two sections of the city almost simultaneously last night, as Mrs. C. J. Stein, 2133 Greenleaf, and Mrs. E. H. Erskine, 2064 Cypress street, telephoned and asked officers to search their neighborhoods.

Police Chief W. W. Williams of Brea, being accommodating to local officers, telephoned Santa Ana police last night that a "drunk is sitting in a car at Buffalo street and Broadway." Police roused, found Charles A. Jackson, Anaheim, who was just taking a sober nap.

Burglars who broke into a service station at 1502 South Main street last night got away with a .22-caliber rifle and six bars of candy, it was reported by Miles Spencer, station operator. He valued the loot at $7, and said entry had been made when the thieves pried open a window screen.

Traffic fines yesterday in city court: Ralph Van Valkenberg, speeding, $; Kenneth D. Figguio, speeding, $8; Charles R. Ash, speeding, $6; Eleanor Haubold, speeding, $5; Dorris Hedges, speeding, $5.

Glenda Farrell admits to only one economy—that of turning out lights every time she leaves a room.

LEGION MEET SATURDAY

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Hollywood unfurled a banner of welcome today to 3300 veterans and their womenfolk arriving for the California state American Legion convention, opening tomorrow.

A huge sound stage at Warner Brothers film studio on Sunset boulevard was turned into a meeting place for the Legionnaires.

National and state defense, veterans' welfare, conservation and other policies are due to be considered. A separate convention of the Legion auxiliary will be held simultaneously.

Tomorrow will be devoted to registration. The formal program will begin Sunday night when Dan W. Emmett, Legion state commander, conducts memorial ceremonies in Hollywood bowl.

During the convention, which ends Wednesday, 197 reunion dinners will be held by various World war service groups, most of them being scheduled for Monday night after the Legion parade.

CONVICTED IN PLOT TO KILL HUSBAND

MILTON, Fla., (AP)—Mrs. Mary Vann, 40, was convicted today of being "an accessory before the fact in an conspiracy to commit murder" by hiring two negroes to wreck the railroad train on which her 60-year-old husband was engineer.

The conviction carries a possible sentence of from one to 40 years imprisonment.

William Fisher, sr., attorney for the Pensacola grandmother, notified Judge L. I. Fabisinski he would file a motion for a new trial.

Mrs. Vann was liberated under the $5000 bond posted by her husband, L. W. Vann, shortly after she was arrested in April. The husband has maintained a belief in his wife's innocence.

The state claimed Mrs. Vann and Earl Travis, 35-year-old former carpenter and night club operator, planned the husband's death so they might collect his life insurance and be free to marry.

COURT BRIEFS

G. I. Curtis and K. M. Sager yesterday appealed to the superior court from a Fullerton justice court judgment of $50 given in favor of John Freeman in a suit he brought against them. Freeman contended the pair had attached his automobile unlawfully.

Herbert M. Baruch yesterday started suit in the superior court here against W. A. Pavlovski and Thomas H. T. Purman to quiet title to two lots in Huntington Beach. He asserts the pair claim some interest.

Rum Pays 'Dry'

A lifelong "dry" advocate, B. K. Farnsworth is in the unique situation of campaigning for temperance and being paid for it by liquor profits. It all happens because the Utah State Liquor Commission, which makes $500,000 profit a year, has a policy of discouraging consumption and assigns Farnsworth as a temperance lecturer. ## Harold Smallwood Undergoes Operation

Column Left

—By— PAUL WRIGHT

By BOB GUILD
Pinch Hitting for Paul Wright

Sport's sport and fishing's work but it gets in the sport column just the same.

County Editor Brick Gaines went fishing yesterday. He barked his shins, got sunburned, wrenched a shoulder, got up before daylight. He caught a sack full of barracuda which he brought to the office for the boys, couldn't find the fellows and left sitting in the alley all night. Brick got the sunburn and 14 alley and 13 assorted cats got the fish.

Vacation's fun, too. Some go fishing, some go hunting, some go to sleep.

City Editor Bradshaw is heading for Mexico Monday where he will lie under a cactus for two weeks and wish he were back here where the thermometer stays around 90. He will not take any fish hooks.

J. Wayne (Trojan) Harrison would just as soon bet $10 per contest on the boys from Los Angeles city this fall. More material, says Wayne, than they've had since 1928.

Roger Hearne, who played an end for Denver during college, and cavorted on the local gridiron for Tex Oliver, says S. C. is in the bag for this fall. How come all this optimism all of a sudden?

The same Tex Oliver lunching today with Allison Honer, Ridley Smith, Harry Ball . . .

Promoter Sam Sampson: What do you have to do to get this Vincent Lopez down here?

Venetian Nick Lutze has rassled five times consecutively out at Horror Hall, each time "winner meet Lopez." Lutze's record—four wins, one fluke loss. Now he's going to wrestle Hangman Cantonwine—winner meet Lopez.

Butcher-Boy Dave Levin blew into Los Angeles, knocked over Chief Little Wolf, will meet Lopez Aug. 19.

Nickel games. Is this sport? If so, we hereby nominate the pin-ball racket for Santa Ana's leading indoor sport. When I say Barnum was right it's in the nature of sackcloth and ashes. We know we're being gypped and we love it. Wander into some of the downtown beaneries some time and take a look at the queue in front of this game—perspiring, pushing, praying, plotting—

And the little tickets good for a nickel. They bear a motto—"Play pin-ball and relax."

Santa Ana's most persistent surf fisherman—Paul Dale, who hates to miss a night. Some of the other boys are laying down their poles and picking up the golf bags.

J. Wayne Harrison went fishing this week, too. Proving something, took off his shirt and fished al fresco. Discovered what he thought a good all-around tan was just a prelude to sorrow.

Gosh it's hot.

Just think, when we go to the bowl this fall for a football game the fog will come rolling in . . .

Note in Los Angeles sheet—"Miss Norma Shearer playing tennis with Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana."

The score was not noted. Santa Ana's Josephine has brought considerable publicity to the seat of the Orange empire with her racket exploits. And now she's in the movies.

U. S. C. STAR STRICKEN AGAIN

German Doctor Removes Appendix on Eve of 400-Meter Run

BERLIN, (AP)—Harold Smallwood, quarter-miler from Ventura, Calif., today underwent a successful emergency operation for removal of his appendix.

Stricken this morning for the second time since he left this country with the rest of the American Olympic team, Smallwood was taken to the West End hospital, near the Olympic village.

Condition Good

An examination revealed the possibility of a burst appendix and an emergency operation was performed by Dr. Erich Neupert, chief surgeon of the hospital. Dr. Herbert Lawson, physician of the American Olympic team, was in attendance.

Both doctors agreed that Smallwood had stood the operation well and that his condition was satisfactory.

It was a heart-breaking setback for the University of Southern California athlete. He had qualified for the semi-finals of the 400-meter run after running two preliminary heats yesterday.

Stricken July 15

Smallwood's withdrawal left Jimmy LuValle and Archie Williams, California negroes, to carry on in the 400 and both responded by winning their semi-final heats today.

Smallwood first was stricken on July 15, the day the American team left New York for Berlin. He was treated on shipboard by Dr. Lawson and apparently had fully recovered.

MORE ABOUT OLYMPICS

pic triple" in 12 years; John Woodruff of Connellsville, Pa., triumphed in the 800-meter run, and Cornelius Johnson of Los Angeles captured the high jump.

Williams finished a full meter ahead of Brown, whose sparkling final drive nipped LuValle by a foot.

Two Outclassed

The race was strictly between the Anglo-Americans as Canada's Johnny Loaring and Bill Fritz brought up the rear, both outclassed. Bill Roberts, the other Briton in the final, looked well beaten entering the last straightaway, but nearly caught Luvalle while Brown was gaining on Williams in the last few strides.

The all-conquering exploits of Owens, Woodruff and Williams gave the United States her first sweep of the flat races, 100 through 800 meters, for the first time in 24 years. The possibility that Owens may be given still another chance to add to his achievements developed today when Head Coach Lawson Robertson said he is giving serious thought to using Owens at anchor on the 400-meter relay team.

Hoeckert Sets Record

Gunnar Hoeckert of Finland captured the 5000-meter final today, giving Finland her second distance running gold medal of the eleventh Olympiad.

Louis Zamperini, 19-year-old Torrance, Calif., schoolboy, finished eighth as Don Lash of Auburn, Ind., the American favorite, placed 14th.

The triumphant Finn clicked off the distance in 14 minutes 22.2 seconds, shaving seven and 8.10th seconds off the former Olympic mark of 14:30 set by his compatriot, Lauri Lehtinen at Los Angeles four years ago.

Lash Folds Suddenly

Lash folded suddenly and completely on the eigth lap after alternating in setting the pace with the Finnish trio, Hoeckert, Lehtinen and Salmenen, and Murakosa for the first seven laps.

Setting a record-smashing pace for Olympic decathlon competition, Bob Clark of San Francisco, former National A. A. U. titleholder, won three of the five events on today's all-around program, amassing 4.194 points.

After capturing the 100-meter sprint in 10.9 seconds and the broad jump with a leap of 25 feet, the San Franciscan crowned these feats by winning the 400-meter sprint in 50 seconds flat.

HOCKEYITES LOSE

BERLIN. (AP)—America's Olympic field hockey team dropped its second successive match today, bowing to India, 7-0. India led 3-0 at half time. Earlier in the competition the Americans were beaten by Japan, 5-1.

SPEED PLANS FOR SUMMER RACING

State Board Gives Okeh To Los Angeles Race Track Project

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Armed with a provisional permit, the Golden State Jockey club speeded up plans today for a $1,250,000 summer horse race track in southwestern Los Angeles.

With Santa Anita's two winter seasons a matter of successful financial history, the California horse racing board finally granted tentative approval for a second plant in the metropolitan area yesterday.

Al Green, movie director, heads the Golden State club, which was ordered by the commission to meet 18 requirements before Oct. 1 to qualify for early summer racing dates next year.

200 Members

The club numbers nearly 200 business, professional and motion picture figures. It is considering two sites, one on National boulevard near Clover field and the other on Pico boulevard.

The commission's stipulations included:

Set-up of the corporate body by Oct. 1.

Receipt of stock subscription of $750,000 or more.

Treasury balance of $100,000 cash or more.

Approved list of directors and officers.

Proper diligence in constructing the track for a 1937 season, the deadline being May 15.

Maury Diggs of San Francisco was announced as collaborator with a local architect on track plans, which include a grandstand seating 13,500 and capacity for 45,000 persons and stables for 1500 horses.

Chamber May Protest

It was said $250,000 in stakes and purses would be scheduled for distribution during 30 days of races.

Two permits previously were refused the Hollywood Racing association, headed by A. T. Jergins, Long Beach oil magnate. One was was a second winter track and the other for a combined winter-summer plant.

Opposition to the location of the new track developed today in the nearby Santa Monica-Ocean Park district where Paul R. Smith, president of the chamber of commerce, announced he would protest to the racing commission.

A track within a mile of the Santa Monica city limits "would have an unfortunate effect on the business structure of the city," Smith asserted, for it was feared large sums of money would be diverted from normal business channels.

JESSE OWENS IN RELAY

BERLIN. (AP)—Lawson Robertson, America's Olympic track coach, announced today he is reconsidering the lineups for the 400 and 1600 meter relay events due to developments of foreign threats.

Robertson forecast he probably would run Jesse Owens, Ohio State negro and "triple threat Olympic champion," at anchor in the 400 relay, and probably Jimmy LuValle, Los Angeles negro, in the 1600, depending on the outcome of his performance today in the 400-meter semifinals.

"We will decide definitely on the relays tonight," said Robertson.

Robertson indicated that Sam Stoller of Cincinnati and Wykoff, three-time Olympian, are certain to carry batons.

If there was turmoil in the city league last week over the Knights of Columbus' upset of Joe's Grocery, it was nothing to the reverberations heard in Municipal Bowl last night, when the Commercial National Bankers rose to great heights to dump the 1935 champion Elks, 6 to 0.

It was a case of too much Bristow, and a highly rattled Pitcher Yorba for the Elks.

Bristow's puzzling slants had the Elks reaching in vain, and they managed to get only three hits off them. Schwarn contributed two, and pinch-hitter Styring came through with a single that meant nothing.

The bankers in the meantime were hopping all over Yorba, who blew up with a resounding bang in the sixth inning, to allow three runs to patter over the plate. Two more were scored in seventh on a walk and three hits.

The unpredicted outcome sewed up the league into another tight little knot, with last year's champs and Joe's Grocery deadlocked for first, and the Commercial bankers resting in second, within striking distance of the leaders.

It paved the way for a natural Monday night, when the two first place squads tangle in a postponed game that probably will decide the championship.

In the first feature last night the Carpenters local team romped on the downtrodden M. E. South nine, to the tune of 9-4. The carpenters combed Pitcher Webb for 10 bingles, scoring four in the second, one in the third, and two each in the fourth and fifth to put the contest on ice.

The Methodists were able to collect eight hits off Fox of the Carpenters, but they were kept scattered with the exception of the thirid inning, when a splurge contributed three runs. From that point on the churchmen were helpless.

CAPISTRANO DOWNS BREA; PLACENTIA WINS, 6-5

COUNTY NIGHT BALL LEAGUE

With Irvine's too-powerful squad out in front by a safe margin, and Huntington Beach down for the count because of pitching difficulties, the four other members of the six-team county loop fought it out last night in two interesting battles.

Placentia outgamed Anaheim by a six to five score, although both aggregations came through with the same amount of hits—11. Placentia, led by the slugging Jones brothers, put on a rally in the late innings, after trailing 3-0 most of the game, to score its six runs in clusters of two, three and one. Anaheim started strong, but faltered.

San Juan Capistrano went berserk in the first inning of its game with Brea, to score four runs, on an error, three hits and a walk, and salt the game away. It was all they scored, but Brea, although pecking away throughout, couldn't catch up.

Avila, first man up for Capistrano in the first, drove a long fly into center field which Seives dropped. It went for a home run. After the next two men were retired in order Capistrano punched over three more runs on three hits and a walk.

Brea scored two in the fifth on Acker's error and doubles by Rogers and Montgomery, but the damage was done.

Lutze Ready For Cantonwine

Nick Lutze today announced that he has perfected a counter defensive for Howard (Hangman) Cantonwine's celebrated hangman maneuver that will not only stop the Iowa caveman but prove his undoing.

Monday night Lutze and Cantonwine clash in the three-fall main event at the Orange County Athletic club and the popular Lutze asserts that he will prove his right to a match with Champion Vincent Lopez by defeating Cantonwine and then taking on and beating Chief Little Wolf.

Already Promoter Sampson is angling for another bout featuring Little Wolf and may give the match to Lutze provided Nick comes through Monday night.

Connie Mack Plays Santa in Sox Victory Drive

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jimmy Dykes' old boss, Connie Mack, has been an unintentional Santa Claus to his ex-pupil's Chicago White Sox this year.

If it wasn't for the pitchers Connie cast off and Jimmy took on, Dykes' Sox wouldn't be anywhere near the American league second place they threaten to take over any day now.

First it was Vernon Kennedy, then Sugar Cain, and now bespectacled Bill Dietrich, whom Mack gave up and Dykes signed. Each has paid heavy dividends.

Dietrich Cops Three

In the 26-game drive since July 13 which swept the Sox from sixth place into the thick of the fight for second, these three have accounted for 11 victories. Kennedy and Cain won four and lost one each in that time.

Dietrich, the more recent acquisition from the A's, by way of the Washington Senators, has taken three starts.

Dietrich and Cain combined yesterday to pin back the ears of the St. Louis Browns in both ends of a doubleheader, thereby pulling the White Sox up to a bare half-game back of the slowing Cleveland Indians.

Cain, although he failed to go the route, won the opener, 9-6. Dietrich let the Brownies down with just five hits in taking the nightcap, 4-1.

Yank Lead Grows

The Indians found their second-base standing on the fire for the first time in weeks by the Sox double victory and their own loss yesterday to the Tigers, 9-0. They were shut out by rookie Jake Wade's seven-hit pitching and a 16-hit Tiger attack, featured by Goose Goslin's eighteenth homer.

Although their game with the Red Sox was washed out, the Yankees found their American league lead stretched to 11½ games by the Indians' defeat.

St. Louis' Gas-house Gang of Cardinals pulled out three full games in front of the National league pack by knocking off the hitless Chicago Cubs for the third straight day.

With Dizzy Dean bearing down in the pinches to chalk up his eighteenth victory of the year, the Cards won out 3-2 in the eleventh inning on Johnny Mize's game-wrecking homer.

Rain and threatening weather washed out the rest of the major league program.

Beardslee Keeps Up Winning Pace in Regatta

NEWPORT HARBOR. (AP)—Five classes of meter sloops matched speed in feature races of the Southern California regatta today as bigger yachts claimed trophies at the end of their three-day program.

Commodore Donald W. Douglas' cutter Endymion of Santa Monica, won the M. & N. championships, the defending Patolita of Santa Barbara failing to start yesterday.

Commodore John Stick's eight-meter yacht Marin of California Yacht club took P. & Q. class honors. George L. Johnson's schooner Ocean Waif of Newport won the X. and Y. titles.

Holding a commanding lead today in the renewal of star class competition was redoubtable Hook Beardslee's world champion sloop By-C. He has tillered three consecutive victories.

By-C amassed 81¾ points. The Long Beach sloops, Zoa and Pat Riot, earned 75 and 71, respectively.

Although the regatta isn't over until tomorrow, winners in the half-pint classes were crowned today. They included:

13-foot—Mine (D. Callis) Long Beach.

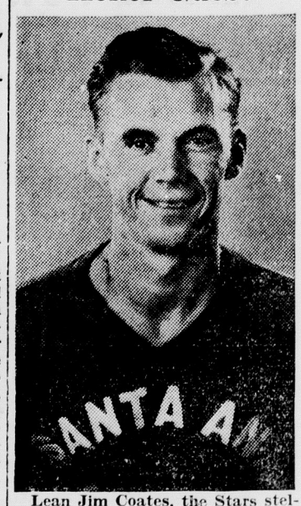

16-foot — Bee Jay (Bobbitt) Newport.

Skimmers — Curlew (Bothell) Balboa.

Rainbow Skimmerette — Damit (Bob Todd) Long Beach.

Snipes—Shady Lady (Schwander) Newport.

Honor Guest

Lean Jim Coates, the Stars stellar moundsman, gets his just deserts tonight, when fans and players will join in honoring the "boy who made good." Coates, in three seasons with Santa Ana, has developed into the league's outstanding hurler.

BEAVERS HIT TOP SPOT

(By the Associated Press)

The Seattle Indians, leading the Coast league race by four full games less than a week ago, held a runner-up position to Portland today after extra-inning games in the Northwest last night.

The Beavers finished up their short series with the San Francisco Missions by winning a ten-inning game, 2-1, while the rocketing San Diego Padres knocked the Tribe out of the league leadership, 5-3, in 11 innings.

A pitching castoff, who found a haven in the San Diego dugout, was largely responsible for the change in leadership. Dick Ward, released earlier in the season by Sacramento, pitched the entire 11 innings, allowed only seven hits, and scored the deciding run himself in the last bracket.

A San Francisco error gave Oakland a 6-4 victory. Dutch Lieber hurled Los Angeles to a 6-4 win over Sacramento.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press

JOHNNY MIZE, Cardinals.—His 11th-inning homer defeated Cubs, 3-2.

ROOKIE JAKE WADE, Tigers.—Pitched seven-hit ball to down Indians in first start.

MINTER HAYES and BILL DIETRICH, White Sox.—Former drove in five runs with homer and single in winning double-header opener against Browns; Dietrich pitched five-hit ball in nightcap.

GAME TO BE BATTLE OF HURLERS

Soaring Orange Cubs to Test Stars' Second Half Winning Record

NATIONAL NIGHTBALL LEAGUE

| | W. | L. | Pct. |

| Anaheim | 3 | 6 | .333 |
| Olive | 2 | 7 | .222 |
| Westminster | 2 | 7 | .222 |

It will be Jim Coates' night tonight at Municipal bowl. They're going to hand the Stars' lanky hurler a chunk of concrete appreciation for his services on the mound for Santa Ana.

They're going to do more than that. They're going to send him into his toughest game of the season.

Santa Ana squares off against Orange at 8:15 while the Olive Grenadiers go over to Huntington Beach to take a swat at the slipping Oilers, and Westminster tangles with Anaheim.

Larimer Tough

Hurler Coates, who has made good here in his third season, will see plenty competition tonight from young Roger Larimer, slightly out of Orange High school, who has hurled 34 scoreless innings for the Cubs. In quick succession he has blanked Olive, Westminster and Huntington Beach. The week before that he dropped a tough one to Santa Ana, 1-0.

Not to detract from Jim Coates' thunder. His record is of the best, and he richly deserves the gift to be presented him tonight by Mayor Fred Rowland.

In the second half of the pennant scramble Jim has blanked Huntington Beach, Orange, Anaheim and Westminster, and won nine consecutive games.

Coates' Record

In the nine games he has hurled 121 strike-outs, for an average of 13.4 per game. In the nine games he has allowed only 52 hits, for an average of 5.8.

Jim, who formerly pitched for Garden Grove High school, depends on a baffling delivery, a fast-sinking drop for his effectiveness. This year his "raise ball" is beginning to take effect.

Here's the score of Jim's nine games in the second half::

Stars 9, Huntington Beach 0; Stars 3, Olive 2; Stars 8, Anaheim 5; Stars 7, Westminster 3; Stars 1, Orange 0; Stars 5, Huntington Beach 1; Stars 9, Olive 2; Stars 1, Anaheim 0; Stars 5, Westminster 0.

L'Mon Whips Hughes Again in O. C. A. C. Thriller

Beetle-browed, shuffling Lupe LeMon, uncovering a vicious attack in the third round, decisively whipped George Hughes of Los Angeles in the boys' rubber match last night at Highway 101 arena, and stood out as a guy who ought to go good among the professionals when he makes his financial plunge next month.

Ebony-hued George Hughes showed an amazing amount of courage in the face of Lupe's dynamite lefts. Time and again from the second round on that left exploded in his face, several times spinning him around. His response was to lower his head and come on, pawing his long left and throwing desperate rights.

Shows New Punch

It looked to ringsiders as though Lupe could have floored the big fellow with a concerted attack, but he lacked this. Respect for Hughes' right hand might have bred LeMon's caution, but after the second round the battle was in the bag, and the Los Angeles boy couldn't have hurt him. Lupe missed at least six chances to put over the kill.

The Fullerton battler uncorked a new punch last night that puzzled his opponent considerably—nothing more than a Sunday uppercut that sometimes connected and more often missed. It was a novelty for the loop-punching Mexican.

Ray (Kayo) Vargas and Emil Stofley of San Juan Capistrano put on a sizzling battle until Stofley walked into a gift punch in the second round and went down like a bag of bones.

Vargas earned himself a bouquet of raspberries from the crowd when he waltzed in and slugged the Capistrano boy down again after Referee Steve Lykke had stopped the fight. Stofley was standing helplessly, his hands at his side, as the referee stepped in to stop the quarrel. Vargas didn't even see him and left fly with a right flush to the chin, that dumped Emil again. The welkin rang with the well-known razz, although it wasn't really Vargas' fault.

Sluggish Bud McCarter, still campaigning for his comeback, knocked out Johnny Wilks in the second round with a short left hand. Up to that point McCarter had considerable trouble hitting his wiry opponent.

The best battle of the evening featured one Jimmy Davis of Los Angeles and Cecil Payne, also of the big city. Payne took a thorough beating, going down for seven in the first round, and again in the fourth, to lose on a technical knockout. Davis' punches traveled no more than four inches at any time.

Al Orona, little brother of Battler Joe, copped his first fight, when he decisioned Sandy Maynard; Raoul Solis dropped Ray Gary in the second round, and Jimmy Merced decisioned Baby Buddy of Los Angeles.

Sports experts at the Los Angeles Olympics in 1932 voted that the most finished exhibition of any sport was that given by India in field hockey.

How's Fishing?

NEWPORT BEACH.—Barracuda still proved to be the best catches in sea meat here yesterday, the majority running about 10 pounds each. Approximately 15 white sea bass and some calico bass were landed. Yellowtail continued to refuse to bite, but it was expected that they would start yielding to local fishermen's hooks within a week.

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's Rambling County Editor

By I. N. (BRICK) GAINES

EXCITEMENT looms in Laguna. Adversaries are squared off for the battle of the bathing suits, and fun seems to be in prospect for wearers of today's so-called swimming costumes.

City council members are frowningly considering what is and what isn't an appropriate costume for vacationeers to wear on the city streets. They aren't worrying because car drivers might crash into each other while staring goggle-eyed at parading residents, but because women's organizations protested about "brevity" of bathing costumes on the streets.

They've scraped up an old ordinance describing proper wear for the beach. Which is food for much thought. Can you imagine the excitement if some sweltering swimmer — female preferred — would appear in one of those droopy, tent-like creations we see in pictures? There'd be a riot, no less.

Why, some residents ask, stop the anatomical display, anyway? The sun is supposed to be healthful, and is just as effective on a bare back as on a bald head. And think how the sales of sunburn lotion would drop if that law were enforced!

Also, if visitors were forced to go back to the old-time costumes, Verner Beck, over at San Juan Capistrano, wouldn't have anything to beef about. He cast several remarks recently about brevity of male swimming attire and forecast one more step backward for the male contingent, into rubber rompers and—e-e-er, other babyish equipment.

Here I was, just getting ready to back someone in the vulcanizing business for rubber bathing suits, when this comes along!

Legal notice: This is to inform all stockholders of dissolution of the "Remove Bessie from the Jailhouse" society.

Because Bessie's already been removed. She's one party glad to be in the doghouse. Because she had to leave jail to get in!

Because Bessie's already been a Laguna Beach visitor, and was placed in Chief Abe Johnson's cooler for consideration of her sins. Her owner, Karl Lindauer, and Karl's other 12 dogs, raised such howls for help that nearly the entire community went to the aid of the quarrelsome quadruped. Everyone realized that the pooch wasn't in the habit of chewing every ankle that came by, and they asked protection for the critter, claiming she was entitled to that one bite.

And, as letters offering aid and legal advice poured into humane society headquarters, Chief John finally released the offender.

"It's the Bess thing to do," he was reported as saying when the gleeful canine greeted her morose master and sorrowful sisters.

And so now Lindauer's ready to start out in his small wagon which dogs have pulled more than 25,000 miles and with which he gets about 60 miles to the gallon of dogfood.

"Uncle Sam" Meyer, Newport journalist, is back from his vacation.

I dropped in on Sam the other day. He appeared acutely uncomfortable, and admitted that getting back into the harness had its bad points. However, he has hopes of becoming accustomed to work. After a while.

Sam and Mrs. Sam and relatives visited in British Columbia while traveling. And the Newport publisher wasn't much impressed with the "foreign" country. Mostly on account of when they went to a motion picture show.

"Hell," said sam, "it was an American movie!"

At last we have a Tournament of Lights story. And now we know three things about the affair. It'll be Aug. 15—that's a week from tomorrow. The start has been set for 7:30 p. m., and boats will follow the same course as last year, whatever that was.

One thing's been worrying this department—will the overhead crossing at the Arches be finished? Doesn't look like it, but that needn't worry potential visitors to the annual affair. Last year the traffic jam wasn't so terrible—lots of police and Boy Scouts helped out, and shoved cars along rapidly enough to keep things under control.

Our poultry department has rushed in again. This time looking for assistance. Recently the department had a couple of tall stories, about peacock eggs—and about hen eggs that hatched due to the warm weather.

Now that department wants to know if anyone has any other such tales. The leader pointed out that he doesn't poach on the poultry raisers, but he's going to get hard-boiled and get some more stories, if he doesn't get cracked. So if anyone can hatch up a story or two, they'll be appreciated.

PREPARE FOR HUGE CROWD AUG. 15

Water Parade to Begin At 7:30 p. m.; Many Entries Received

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—The annual Tournament of Lights, scheduled for Aug. 15, will start at 7:30 p. m. and will follow virtually the same course boats took in last year's event, it was announced at a meeting of the chamber of commerce here yesterday.

Aid of Senators Johnson and McAdoo will be sought in obtaining navy ships for the tournament, according to Mayor Harry Williamson, who will contact the representatives immediately.

Elaborate prizes will be offered entrants in the tournament, and dozens of entries from surrounding communities are expected, leaders in the event announced today. Santa Ana, Long Beach, Pasadena and Laguna chambers of commerce have already signified intention of entering the event, as have many yacht clubs and civic associations.

No commercial advertising will be allowed this year, with the tournament to be limited strictly to boats, it was announced.

Plans were also discussed for a long-distance swim which will probably be held here in September and will cover a course between Newport and Balboa piers. Committees to set a date and handle arrangements will be appointed immediately, it was decided.

President S. A. Mayer told members of his recent vacation trip. He urged careful study of the problems confronting the community in the vote Aug. 18 on a $300,000 bond issue for installation of a modern sewer system.

C. E. GROUP TO HAVE SOCIAL

MIDWAY CITY.—Members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Community church held their regular monthly business meeting at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. C. N. Jones Monday evening.

Plans were made for an ice cream social to be held next Tuesday afternoon and evening on the lawn of the Hart home on Roosevelt street.

A tending the meeting were Russell Fury, Clarence Wasser, David Robertson, Wayne Fury, Gordon McAlister, Clayton Van Steenbergh, Marie Arnett, Frances Heil, Peggy and Dorothy Mayberry and Emmaetta, Lois and Doris Hart.

La Habra Tax Raise Expected

LA HABRA.—An increase in the district school tax rate here this year seemed certain, following a budget hearing early in the week at which the present school setup and financial condition was explained to residents.

Unexpected expenses, including employment of an extra teacher, will call for greater expenditures than originally estimated, trustees reported. Although the board had hoped to hold the tax figure at 35 cents, it was explained that this rate may be raised several cents to care for additional expenses.

Orange Resident Back From Trip

ORANGE—Mrs. Walter Weimer, who has been vacationing in Seattle and Vancouver, B. C., for the past 10 days, returned to her home here Wednesday night.

Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Richardson, will arrive at her home in Orange next week after spending six months visiting friends and relatives in Iowa. Miss Pauline Weimer, a nurse in the Mercy hospital, Merced, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weimer, is a guest of her parents for a month's vacation. She arrived in Orange Tuesday.

Form Orchestra At Costa Mesa

COSTA MESA.—Plans have been started for formation of an orchestra in the Epworth league.

Members who have already agreed to participate are Miss Avanell Nelson, violin; Miss Marion Nelson, piano; Alfred Pearce, trombone; Miss Irene Hallemore, flute; Raymond K. Eastman, saxophone; Robert Briley and John Daley, steel guitars.

AT TRAINING CAMP

GARDEN GROVE. — Richard Littlejohn, John Oertly and Walter Ziegler are spending two weeks at the National Guard training camp at Ventura with the anti-aircraft division. The young men are members of Battery F of the 251st division of the coast artillery, Long Beach.

RECREATION FINANCES TO BE TOPIC AT MEETING

LAGUNA BEACH.—Plans of financing purchase of necessary equipment for recreational purposes, as well as discussion of a proposed program for the ensuing fiscal year, are among matters to come before the Laguna Beach recreation commission at the monthly meeting set for Monday evening, it was announced today by Francis B. Morss, president.

At the regular city council meeting Wednesday night, Mayor L. F. Mallow, voting on a request for funds submitted by the recreation commission, made it plain that the city's limited budget, trimmed down to absolute necessities for operating the city government, would have no funds available for recreation purposes.

At that time he pointed out financing of the commission's program is predicated on citizens voting a special assessment for that purpose. This phase of the program is expected to be given consideration. Morss explained, however, that there is no intention to ask for a special assessment until resident have familiarized themselves with aims and objectives of the commission.

ALOHA BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

MEN BEHIND REVOLT ARE DESCRIBED

March Is 'Rockefeller of Spain;' Writer Tells of Leaders

(Editor's Note: Who are the personalities behind the bloody revolution now being fought in Spain? In the following story, Dewitt MacKenzie, who has had more than 20 years experience in foreign fields for the Associated Press, serving as a war correspondent and also covering many of the other greatest news events abroad during this period, gives a graphic word picture of the men in Spain upon whom all eyes are centered today.)

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK. — Behind the bloody revolution tearing at the vitals of Spain and shaking all Europe is reputed to be one of the most powerful and romantic figures the land of Dons has produced.

He is Juan March, 60-year-old "Rockefeller of Spain," who is credited with being one of the world's richest men. He is said to be providing much of the money for the fascist drive to unseat the present government with its communistic backing.

March has a finger in most of the monopolies of the country, its banks and electrical utilities corporations, and other enterprises.

Began as Stevedore

He began his financial career as an apprentice stevedore, earning about 16 cents a day unloading bales of tobacco. A few years later he had a tobacco monopoly and was wielding vast influence.

Several times during the monarchy he was called before the civil courts to explain his transactions. Once under Primo de Rivera's dictatorship he was accused of piracy on the Mediterranean and escaped to France disguised as a curate. Later he was exonerated.

Under the republic he was charged by officials on a half dozen counts having to do with the improper use of money in obtaining concessions under the monarchy.

Expelled as Deputy

In 1931 he was expelled from the chamber of deputies for "moral incompatability" and then was arrested and jailed on a charge of bribery in obtaining tobacco concessions in Morocco. He escaped into Gibraltar.

In 1933 the Spanish parliament approved his election as a deputy and he was allowed to return.

March is reported to be in Portugal. With him is said to be another outstanding backer of the revolutionists — Jose Maria Gil Robles, 38-year-old newspaperman-educator-lawyer-politican who has been leader of the Catholic party known as the Popular Agrarian Action.

Doctor of Law at 20

Gil Robles was graduated from Madrid university as a doctor of laws at the exceptionally young age of 20.

During his youth he became widely known for his championship of the Catholic faith. Later as a member of parliament he was a feared foe of the so-called extremists, directing his attacks especially against the socialists. That explains his attitude in the present revolt against a government which among other things is campaigning against the church and confiscating church property.

The most colorful of the actual military leaders is General Franco Baamonde, known to the world as Franco.

Professional Soldier

This 43-year-old revolutionist is a professional soldier with a varied career. While he may be dictator if the revolt succeeds, he never has dabbled much in politics, though he was assistant secretary of war from 1933 to 1935.

Franco has been in the Spanish army since 1911, and has been a general for 12 years. He spent 19 years in Morocco, and for four years headed the much publicized Foreign Legion. He was made director of the Spanish military academy in 1927, but was ousted when the republic came into power.

Franco finds himself opposing his younger brother, Major Ramon Franco, air attache at Washington. The major led an unsuccessful revolt five years ago. It will be interesting to see what happens to him if his brother wins and becomes dictator.

And There's Mola

General Emilio Mola, the Fascist leader whose forces have been making a sensational drive through the mountain passes towards Madrid, is the other outstanding figure among the revolutionists.

Mola is a two-fisted fighter who was chief of police in Madrid under King Alfonso. When the monarchy was overthrown, he encountered great hostility among the republicans, who charged that he had exceeded his powers in dealing with republican outbreaks.

There is much speculation as to who will be who—Franco or Mola—if the revolt succeeds. Thus far neither has made any public declaration which would indicate his intentions regarding a supreme command.

Hunter Collects Bounty on Lion He Didn't Kill

VENTURA (AP).—Herman Keene, veteran Santa Paula lion hunter, has collected $50 from the board of supervisors for a lion he admitted he didn't kill. He brought in the skin and announced it was an animal he had wounded five years ago and shot and killed recently by a friend. He bought the skin from the friend and collected the bounty

THORN in the FLESH

By GLENN L. THORNE

See where food prices are up 30 per cent over those of three years ago.

Which would be cause for great rejoicing if only wages were in the balloon too. Mr. and Mrs. John Public and family received drastic cuts because of the depression, and their wages, with few exceptions, are still at a minimum. Salary and wage levels should be restored. Then the upturn which is reported under way would go over big.

But even so, looks like things are getting back towards normal. Once more we are being invited to purchase on easy monthly payments—the old convenient "excitement" plan which is one of those "strange as it seems" oddities which makes the months shorter and the years longer.

FERRY STRIKE ON BAY DUE TODAY

Walkout Is Threatened Sometime After 5 This Afternoon

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Complete tie-up of San Francisco bay's automobile ferry system, the largest in the world, loomed as a union strike threat for "after 5 p. m." today.

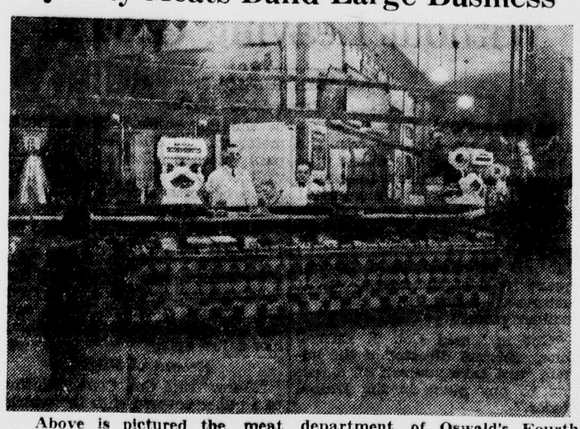

The exact hour of the walkout, called by the union in support of demands for compensation to boatmen who will be thrown out of jobs by two bridges now nearing completion, remained uncertain.

"Probably it will not be until tomorrow," said Sam Kagel, Pacific coast labor bureau representative, speaking for the ferryboatmen's union.

The strike would tie-up 29 automobile ferries, which carry approximately 16,700 vehicles between San Francisco bay points daily, and three passenger ferries.

But 10 boats, which carry only passengers, would remain in operation to handle the daily rush of 45,000 commuters between east bay cities and San Francisco. All ferry service to north bay points would be cut off.

Quality Meats Build Large Business

Buying power and business are on the increase in Santa Ana as indicated by recent gains in food sales, according to Dick Klause, head of the grocery department of Oswald's Fourth Street Market.

He said sales have shown a steady increase during the past month. Klause features farm products strongly in his advertising.

"Being in a community where there is so much farming, we push these products as much as possible," he said.

Carl McAndress, manager of the fruit and vegetable department, announced arrangements whereby produce is delivered fresh to the market each morning.

Increase in meat sales, according to George Apel, department manager, have been due largely to the favorable purchasing position of the firm, which is said to be one of the largest independent meat buyers in California. All meat sales are guaranteed.

Snowfall in the West in the past winter has been ample to insure water supplies for all federal reclamation projects this season.

TOURISTS AWAIT ERUPTION

Resort at Lassen Is Crowded

MINERAL, Calif. (AP)—Residents and tourists are beginning to regard their homesites and campsites "with a perfect view of Mount Lassen" as box seats for a show that never raised its curtain.

More than three weeks have passed since the last flurry of seismic activity revived rumors that America's only active volcano was about to erupt. Thousands flocked to this region in the hope of witnessing one of the mightiest of nature's upheavals. They stayed to go fishing.

If Mount Lassen has any activity in store for these disappointed humans, it evidently is taking another forty winks before awakening.

Park Superintendent Ernest P. Leavitt and Park Naturalist Carl Swartzlow have decided the thousand earthquakes of the last few months have had little connection with the volcanic mountain, but probably were separate phenomena centering on fault zones in this vicinity.

But hundreds of tourists are waiting here in hopes the earth shocks were harbingers of an eruption.

Mineral, which has a permanent population of about 100, is harboring 10 times that number, taxing its resort capacities and those of the park concessions.

5 MEN SAIL FOR LONELY POSITIONS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Five men who for two whole years will have nowhere to go and nothing to spend a cent for sailed today through the Bering sea toward their jobs at the five remotest lighthouses kept by the United States.

The five, who for 12 months have been on leave at full pay, are aboard the tender Cedar. This vessel is en route from Ketchikan to relieve and provision the Alaskan lights at Capes Spencer, St. Elias, Hinchenbrook, Scotch Cap and Sarichef.

R. R. Tinkham, chief engineer of the lighthouse service, said at each of the lights, which are manned by three men apiece, the Cedar will leave one man and take off another.

"Sometimes the keepers get tired of looking at one another and get into complications," Tinkham added, "but usually the Ketchikan superintendent has been successful in getting men who like isolation.

"The assignment is voluntary and you'd be surprised how many men apply for those positions."

As the men are paid $1800 a year with quarters and provisions thrown in free, they can come out in 1938 with $3600 to their credit. Keepers in less remote places get an average of $1000 to $1200 annually.

Once Tinkham called at a remote station where the three men had not spoken to one another or eaten a meal together in six months.

Look Out for the Cars! That First Train's Here Again

That railroad business again.

There seems to have been some diversity of opinion as to just when the first railroad reached Orange county. J. B. Joplin, who occasionally tears aside the curtain of the years and brings to light interesting historical data, today wrote The Journal some more information about those trains.

"This yarn," he said, "is written more with the idea of establishing historically some badly jumbled up dates, than to tell of the frivolousness of those early day pioneers.

"The men brought their overalls and brogans, plow shoes, and the women their calico prints and flannels, by the yard, from the one or two general merchandise stores in the little town. The women later made these goods into full length dresses and petticoats—few shopping trips were made to the city of Los Angeles in those days, although the pioneers had available daily train service to and from.

"The first railroad, which contributed so much to this county's development, was built into what is now Orange county, not in 1879, 1885 or 1889—but in 1875.

"It was the first part of what later became the great Southern Pacific system in Southern California. The short line connected San Pedro and Willmington and Anaheim, the fast growing wine making town seven miles to the north of Santa Ana.

On to Santa Ana

"The railroad went through Florence, a suburb of Los Angeles, and afforded that town railroad connection with the water front and with Anaheim, Norwalk and Downey as well. Later—I think during the year 1876—the line was continued on to Santa Ana.

"This short line was built and operated several years before the Southern Pacific proper came down the coast from San Francisco to connect with it.

"Who the first locomotive engineer was I do not know. The first one I remember was 'Dad' Thomas. Frank Monaghan was an early day conductor. When he left the road Frank Curtis took his place. Other trainmen were Ralph Marshal and Vetter.

Horse Car

"Two of the Southern Pacific's first depots are county land marks today; the one at Loara, West Anaheim and the building which has been occupied by the Guggenheim company on the S. P. tracks and Fruit street for almost the past 40 years, is another. A third, the one at West Orange, was torn down when the cross-cut highway was built. A horse drawn street car connected the Fruit street terminus of the Southern Pacific with Fourth and Main streets during the early eighties and the railroad company was doing a thriving business in both passenger and freight service.

"B. G. Balcom was depot agent and Gee Harlin, son of a Santa Ana pioneer, was a clerk in the office and Henry Sears, a son-in-law of former Sheriff Theo. Lacy, was another.

"The rail passenger service—one round trip a day to Los Angeles—was patronized by three or four attorneys who lived in Santa Ana and went frequently to the superior court in Los Angeles. Among them was Victor Montgomery, Col. E. E. Edwards, later Orange county's first district attorney and Col. W. F. Heathman, long time city attorney of Santa Ana.

"Other old time residents who went back and forth over the same rails were the Spurgeon,s Humphreys, Bowers, Ross, Geopper, Spangler, Yost, the druggist—Edwards, Dr. Medlock, French, Tedford, Dibble, McFadden, Bundy, Gildmacher, Reinhaus, Chilton, and at tax paying time for the county of Los Angeles, many others.

"Many Anaheimers, for at that time the mother colony town was the larger of the two towns, were passengers on the Los Angeles bound passenger train. The Baeges, Schneiders, Dyers, Zeins, Dryfus, Koenigs, Kuchels, Melroses, Scotts, Langenbergers, Rimpaus, Backs, Horstman, Korns, Davis, Lewis, Kraemer, Joan Tohulsky, Count Bozenta, Madame Modjeska and others.

"This, at that time de lux passenger train, carried a mail car and clerk, and many people who lived near the depots along the route, took advantage of the convenience by meeting the train and mailing out-going letters."

'Talkies' Are 10 Years Old Today

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—The silver screen lost its muteness and burst forth into sound 10 years ago today.

The first "talkie" was a short subject. An audience in a New York City theater saw Will Hays, "czar" of the film industry, move his lips on the screen and heard sounds come from them. Then they witnessed John Barrymore in "Don Juan" and heard a symphonic musical background.

Colton Youth Burns to Death

COLTON. (AP)—Sprayed with flaming kerosene when the tried to light a fire, Albert Campos, 11, was burned to death. His father wrapped a blanket around him in an attempt to smother the flames.

Consul Uses Poetry to Tell How He Wants to Come Home

WASHINGTON (AP).—Homesick after seven years abroad, a young American consul burst desperately into verse today in an attempt to get Secretary Hull to o. k. a free ride back to the United States.

Harold B. Minor of Holton, Kans., who is vice-consul in far-off Rio de Janeiro, indited this poem, published in the American Foreign Service Journal:

I've the honor to ask the government
To refer to almost a tome
Of dispatches I've written requesting
Leave of absence to visit at home.

Yearly, I've bored the department,
In prose neither moving nor terse,
With petitions for free transportation—
Now lend ear while I try it in verse.

I can't sue with the wit of a Clemens,
Set words in gallant array
Of the glorious poet of Avon
Or the lyric perfection of Gray.

For want of the genius of Byron,
The rhythmic persuasion of Hood,
I must rest my case on its merits
And pray that you think it is good.

Seven years in three countries I've labored,
Since the shores of my homeland I've seen,
And my exile will doubtless continue,
'Less the department or God intervene.

Give me a glimpse of the sunflowers of Kansas,
A smell of sweet clover in bloom,
The perfume of prairies at sunrise,
And I'll work 'til the sounding of doom.

Let me see Times Square at twilight,
View Washington's new lifted face,
Feel the pulse of a land that is changing,
And I'll serve with a smile any place.

If the department approve this petition
And forgive these stanzas inane,
I'd like to leave Rio in August—
Respectfully yours, I remain.

State department officials, while sympathizing with Minor's nostalgia, said he would have to wait his turn for leave. Funds for such purposes are limited, they said, but they will get around to Minor in due course.

Seven in Family Have Tonsils Out on the Same Day

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo. (AP).—Seven members of the family of Harry Frisk lined up at Dr. R. A. Ryan's hospital to have their tonsils removed and Dr. Ryan glanced at the clock.

When he had finished, Dr. Ryan checked the time and concluded he could remove "a little better than four pairs of tonsils an hour—without hurrying too much."

CONVICTED OF MURDER

MORE WPA JOBS ARE SOUGHT

HYDE PARK, N. Y., (AP)—President Roosevelt was asked yesterday by Mayor Fiorella La Guardia of New York, as chairman of the National Conference of Mayors, to increase WPA job quotas throughout the country immediately to a point where all destitute employable cases are cared for.

La Guardia told reporters after he had conferred with the President, that studies in 21 cities, most of them of medium or small size, showed 125,000 employables were without work relief jobs.

"Up to the present time, therefore," he said, "the federal government has not assumed full and complete responsibility for this group. As a result many communities, in addition to providing for direct relief to the unemployable cases, paying for certain costs of the WPA program about 18 per cent of the total cost and contributing 55 per cent of the total cost on PWA projects, are facing the problem of assistance to needy employable cases."

MORE ABOUT WERNERS

sembly committee the $250 was a legal fee for the former city attorney.

It was the second time Mrs. Werner and Weinblatt had been linked in a criminal case. They were indicted with Gavin W. Craig, then associate justice of the district court of appeal, in 1933 in connection with the handling of the Italo Petroleum company mail fraud action.

Two Convicted

Mrs. Werner was acquitted on charges of bribery and conspiracy to obstruct justice. Weinblatt and Craig were convicted, sentenced to a year in jail, and fined $1000 each. Their appeals are pending.

Mrs. Werner's political prominence dates back to 1929 when her husband retired as chief of the state inheritance tax department to become city attorney. He was defeated for re-election in 1933 when she directed his campaign.

Screaming and weaping in hysterical rage, Mrs. Werner went through the formal booking, photographing and fingerprinting at the county jail late yesterday.

Husband Jovial

"This is the rottenest deal there ever was," she cried. "But I'll capitalize on it. I'll campaign against Buron Fitts."

She slapped one newspaper photographer and smashed the camera of a second.

Werner, however, was jovial when he appeared at the jail later.

Two persons were indicted last week in the grand jury probe. One, Jesse Crain, had told state assemblymen he was a "handy man" in the Werner office.

Aviators Take Blind Hops Without Leaving Ground

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP).—This reporter took an airplane trip the other day, narrowly missed the capitol dome and knocked a chunk out of the Washington monument—all without leaving terra firma.

The experience left him a bit groggy.

It all happened in a 20-foot square room of the bureau of air commerce, where they have a "trainer plane."

"Get in," said Col. J. Carroll Cone, assistant director of the bureau, "and take yourself on a free ride to any place in the United States."

Picks Pittsburgh

Before him in the middle of the room stood the device in the shape of a plane anchored to a revolving base.

"Where do you want to go?" asked the colonel.

"Pittsburgh."

"Okay. Here's the map. That's the stick. This is your compass. Put on the earphones. Take off when ready."

He clamped down a hood over the cockpit. Excepting a luminous dashboard and a dim side light, things were dark as a tomb.

"You're in the Air"

From somewhere came the sound of a starting motor. The cockpit began to vibrate. A yank on the throttle made it sway. A push on the pedal sent a blast of air through the ship.

"You're in the air," said a voice in the earphones. The altitude meter showed 2,000 feet. The compass pitched like an unsteady waltzer. The wind shrieked. The plane began a sickening series of twists and turns.

"Hey, let me out!" cried your correspondent, in terror.

Without moving from its base the trainer had performed the functions of a plane rising from the ground, zooming badly into the sky and then doing something like a tail spin.

Record of Flight

"Here," said Col. Cone, pointing to a paper covered with the whirls, "is a record of the flight."

"What is this mark?"

"That," he said, "means that you just skimmed the capitol dome."

"And this?"

"Oh," he replied, "that is where you knocked the top off the Washington monument."

The trainer is designed to teach instrument flying. Every sensation experienced by a pilot can be duplicated, even to flying in a fog.

While the pilot is "in the air" every movement of the plane is recorded. When he gets out he can study his mistakes. It's the rage among fliers.

Walk a lot and eat what you want when you want it, is Margot Grahame's recipe for health. The English actress follows this advice and enjoys perfect health.

ESKIMOS ON ARCTIC RIM STARVING

JUNEAU, Alaska. (AP)—A radio message from Capt. C. D. Peterson, veteran Arctic trader, to the governor's office from Herschel island disclosed that Eskimos along the Arctic rim are facing starvation.

Some of the natives, he messaged, were found to be in a seriously weakened condition and their reindeer are dying. The Barter island situation is particularly serious, his message said.

Peterson, who sails north annually from San Francisco, asked government aid to relieve the distress. He said he had given away all he could spare of his ship's supplies. Flour and other necessities are urgently needed, his message said.

The governor's office and the bureau of Indian affairs immediately radioed United States Commissioner Frank Daugherty, at Barrow, asking if he could send aid. Supplies will be flown there if necessary.

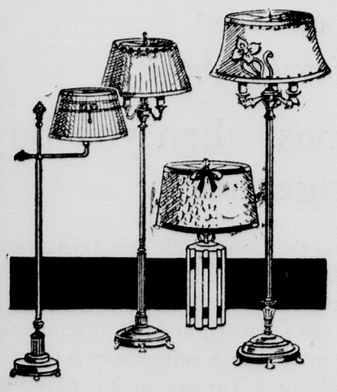

Barter island lies 275 miles east of Barrow, Alaska, along the coast of the Arctic ocean. Herschel island is 400 miles to the east.

Margaret Lindsay is having a short wave radio transmitter installed in her home so she can talk with the folks back in Dubuque, Iowa.

FOUR SUPERVISORS OPPOSE KILLING EQUALIZATION BOARD

WEST FAVORS EMPLOYING EXPERTS

Other Members Say Plan Would Only Result in Added Expense

"We don't want to have anything to do with it," said four members of the board of supervisors in commenting on the Los Angeles proposal to abolish county boards of equalization. "It would just be an added expense.

"It's a swell idea. It's splendid!" said the minority member of the board, N. E. West, of Laguna Beach.

Thus the board maintained the same lineup which has marked its activities for several months.

Likes Experts

West has always contended he was for economy. But at the same time, he's an appraiser himself, and has stressed the value of experts in this line. Expert appraisers, he thinks, could replace the regular supervisors as a board of equalization and, even though the experts would have to be paid, West figures somehow the county would be ahead in the end.

The difference of opinion was stimulated when The Journal told yesterday of a Los Angeles bill being prepared for the legislature, which would abolish all county boards of equalization. The bill would replace them with boards of real estate men who would act on tax assessment adjustments and complaints.

The idea was supported by Supervisor Leland Ford of Los Angeles, who thinks sitting as a board of equalization two weeks a year is too much work and too technical a job for county officials.

Little to Do

Supervisor W. C. Jerome, Santa Ana, said he believes all the smaller counties will oppose the scheme of creating new commissions. He said in the past four years the local board hasn't had an average of more than one matter per day to handle while sitting as a board of equalization. County Assessor James Sleeper's methods have been so fair there haven't been any mixups, Jerome explained.

Jerome suggested that the Los Angeles board can hire all the experts it wants for technical advice, so why pass a law creating a new board? Anyway it could amend its charter to gain the desired effect without upsetting the basic law of the state, he suggested.

Said Chairman John Mitchell, of Garden Grove, "Probably it would work fine in Los Angeles county because it's so large. But it would be just an added expense here. Members of the board of supervisors are familiar with every parcel of land in their respective districts anyway. We've had very little complaint."

Added Expense

"I think it would be a great mistake to eliminate such a board and shift the responsibility to some other body," said Supervisor Willard Smith of Orange. "I feel this is one of the important functions of the board, although we've been fortunate here in not having much of this work to do."

"There isn't any need for it yet," said Supervisor LeRoy Lyon of Anaheim. "I haven't given the idea much thought because we've got along so well in Orange county. It certainly would be an added expense because a board of that sort would cost money."

But Supervisor West insists the proposal would "take this work out of the hands of unfitted and untrained laymen." He also said when experts are employed for such technical work, it takes the thing out of politics.

Utt Uses Bourbon Campaign Strategy; Westover Active Giving Cards to Strangers

While James B. Utt is a Republican, he has adopted the "Woodrow Wilsonian" Democratic policy of watchful waiting in carrying on his campaign for re-election to the assembly. When the other fellow shoots, he'll shoot, too—but not before.

On the other hand Harry Westover, Democrat, believes in lots of activity, particularly speeches and passing out cards.

"I'm waiting," says Utt.

Shakes Hands Often

He says he has adopted the only sensible tactics for a man already in public office—he's standing on his record.

"Why should I pick a fight?" he asks.

"When some of my opponents come out with their declarations I'll know what I have to fight. Until then I can only point to what I've done. I've been there long enough for people around here to know what I stand for."

In the meantime Utt's scurrying around, he says. He's shaking a lot of hands, talking to a lot of people and keeping the name of Utt well known.

He's even holding conferences.

Big Drive Coming

This is no time for platforms in the opinion of Harry C. Westover, Santa Ana attorney seeking the Democratic nomination for state senator from Orange county.

"After Aug. 25 the fun will start," he says in a way that shows he feels Harry C. Westover will be in the running after that important date. Such confidence doesn't stop him from making an average of three or four speeches a week and passing out cards. Even passed cards to a Negro couple who turned out to be from Los Angeles.

"But we're Roosevelt people," they assured him. Speaking dates include Townsend clubs (by invitation) and everything from Young Democrats to chiropractors.

"I've been asking people how they're going to vote, and not one has volunteered he is going to vote for Landon," he asserts. "Dozens have said they are going to vote for Roosevelt."

Sharps and Flats From The Political Bandwagon

'BIG BILL' THOMPSON JOINS UP WITH LEMKE

CHICAGO (AP).—Newton Jenkins, Chicago attorney, allied with the Rep. William Lemke third party forces, announced in a statement that former Mayor William Hale (Big Bill) Thompson would be the Union party's candidate for governor of Illinois. Rep. Lemke (R., N. D.) is the presidential candidate of the Union party, which took the field a few weeks ago with the backing of Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit.

G. O. P. NAMES INDIAN TO GET 'REDSKIN' VOTE

CHICAGO (AP).—An "Indian division" was added today to the Republican national committee's campaign organization, with William P. Wilkerson of Chicago, a full-blooded Cherokee, as its chief. Arthur M. Curtis of the committee called it "an innovation in Republican party history." Curtis said Wilkerson would begin a tour into states with large Indian populations next week. Indians have been permitted to vote since 1924, and Curtis' announcement commented that their vote in Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico and North Dakota was "an important factor."

HAMILTON SEES SILVER IN LANDON PROGRAM

SALT LAKE CITY (AP).—John D. M. Hamilton announced here he felt "confident" silver would have a place in Gov. Alf M. Landon's program if he were elected President. ## Anti-Lewis Group May Join A. F. L.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A possible new claimant to the American Federation of Labor membership which John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers are on the point of losing appeared on the troubled labor scene today.

William Keck, president of the Progressive Miners of America and bitter critic of Lewis, said at Gillespie, Ill., that when his union meets in convention next month it probably will consider the question of applying for A. F. of L. membership.

The labor world anxiously watched today to see whether the action of the A. F. of L. executive council, in ordering Lewis and 10 associated unions suspended from the federation unless they repented of their "rebellion" in 30 days, would lead to civil war in labor ranks.

Ready to Start New Quints' Film

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, five littlest stars of filmland, are going to start work in their second picture soon.

Director Norman Taurog, who megaphoned the quints through their initial success, "The Country Doctor," leaves tomorrow for their Ontario, Canada, nursery.

On Wednesday, "Doctor" Jean Hersholt, "Nurse" Dorothy Peterson, "Papa" John Qualen and "Neighbor" Slim Summerville, will follow with the technical crew.

Only one major change has been made in the cast that played with the Dionnes in their first film. Rochelle Hudson will be the ingenue instead of June Lang.

JULY CITRUS SHIPMENTS INCREASE

Exchange Reports More Valencias Handled Than in 1935

July shipments of valencia oranges through the associations affiliated with the Orange County Fruit exchange were 159 cars greater than in the same month of 1935, it was announced today by Clarence Skiles, manager. The total shipments in July, through the exchange, were 1391 cars. Of these, 141 were sold through the Los Angeles distributing plant and 1250 cars were moved through export and domestic markets.

The total number of cars moved, up to Aug. 1, was 3295. In the same period last year the shipments of loose and packed valencia oranges amounted to 3266 carloads.

Lemon Shipments

Skiles said the estimate of the amount of fruit remaining to go as of Aug. 1 was 4442 cars of tree crop, which compares with 3627 carloads of actual shipments of loose and packed fruit for last year after Aug. 1.

To date the shipments of lemons from this district have amounted to 676 carloads, the number moving in July being 145 cars.

The market on California lemons during July was very active, with prices at very satisfactory levels, said Skiles. The demand for lemons is still very good and they are moving at satisfactory prices, he added.

As reported by the California-Arizona orange and grapefruit agency, the revised tree crop as of Aug. 2 amounts to 22,062 carloads of valencias, compared to an actual tree crop on the same date last year, for all shippers, of 26,450 cars, and 15,260 cars on Aug. 1, 1934.

Quota Cut Down

Although fully up to normal for late July and August, the demand for California oranges is lighter at this time than the unusually heavy movement in June and early July, said Skiles. Shipments of oranges from California were reduced this week to a total of 1400 cars, packed and loose fruit. Next week's shipments have been set at 1200 cars, packed and loose, for all shippers to move within the state and to other markets of the United States and Canada.

EXPERT WILL PLAY 40 AT CHECKERS

'Bronx Comet' to Show Ability Here While Blindfolded

Willie Ryan, the "Bronx Comet," comes to the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. next Thursday evening for an exhibition of checkers as played by big league players.

Ryan is editor of "The King Row Review," official organ of the North American Checker association, and is the author of a book, "Scientific Checkers Made Easy." He is an exponent of the most modern methods of play and is said to be gifted as an entertainer.

His program on Thursday evening, starting at 7:30, will include simultaneous play against all comers. Arrangements are being made to seat 40 players to oppose him in the simultaneous play. Following this exhibition of skill, he will have himself blindfolded for further play with a selected group of opponents.

Ryan offers to give a copy of his book to any man who wins a game from him during the evening.

Men who wish to play against the expert are requested to make their reservations in advance at the Y. M. C. A. office, and so far as possible they are asked to bring their own boards and playing pieces.

The event will be staged in the "Y" gymnasium, it was announced by Secretary Ralph Smedley, and both men and women are invited. Except for a small charge to cover the cost of the exhibition, there will be no restrictions as to attendance.

Santa Ana Built on Land Once Owned by Josiah and Ann Prather Ross

(Men are remembered after their death for their unselfish service to their fellow men. Robert Gardner of Orange has written a series of articles about pioneers of this section, which The Journal will publish in order to preserve the memory and deeds of outstanding characters. Today's sketch tells about the Ross family—Editor.)

The Ross family have always been real contributors to human betterment in Orange county.

Jacob Ross came to California in 1865. With him was his son, Joseph Ross, and Ann Prather Ross, wife of Josiah. They settled first in Monterey county and stayed there two years before they came south to Santa Ana in 1868.

Jacob Ross returned east after establishing his family in Santa Ana. He sold his holdings there and returned with the money that bought part of an old Spanish grant from Yorba.

It is on the 375 acres of land that was purchased by Josiah and Ann Prather Ross that the present city of Santa Ana now stands. They paid $1.25 an acre when they bought.

The first cemetery in Santa Ana was donated by the Ross family. Later it was decided to be too near the town so the bodies were dug up and moved to the present city cemetery. This cemetery was at the present location of Fourth and Ross streets.

The Rosses took an active part in the fight to separate Orange county from Los Angeles county.

A large family of Rosses live in Orange county now. They have proven in the past as well as in the present to be most cooperative and progressive. Josiah Ross died in the fall of 1895. One week later his mother died to join her husband, Jacob Ross, and on May 9, 1917, Sarah Ann Prather Ross died.

It has been said that the Ross family is the foremost family in Orange county.

Hot nights are seriously hampering fumigation work in Orange county citrus groves, growers and pest control men reported today.

They said temperatures for several nights have been above the danger level until as late as 8 or 10 o'clock. According to D. W. Tubbs, county agricultural commissioner, regulations specify that the temperature must not be more than 70 degrees when fumigation is started, and that 68 degrees is recommended as the upper limit.

Above these temperatures there is a tendency for the gas to burn fruit and leaves.

At the same time Tubbs declared it is necessary for growers to fumigate as soon as possible, lest black scale develop into the "rubbery" stage in which they are partially immune to cyanide gas or spray.

"Those with ripe fruit picked should treat so that equipment will be available later to others," he said.

Last year in July and August 230,000 trees were fumigated and 855,000 trees were sprayed.

Unless treatment becomes more active than at present, the total for July and August this year will fall short, Tubbs said.

Mrs. Huffman Presides in Garden

Two Informal Parties Given in Outdoor Setting

Among the interesting party series being hostessed by Santa Anans this summer, and having their settings in shady gardens for which Santa Ana homes are famous, was a series of two delightful affairs at which Mrs. H. C. Huffman presided on Wednesday and Thursday of this week at her home at 2340 Riverside drive.

Both of the affairs were luncheons and both were served in the lovely garden behind the home in the shade of a large walnut tree, the fountain and pool adding to the coolness of the scene.

Phlox Centers Tables

Little old-fashioned English bouquets of phlox in pottery bowls, in keeping with the English architecture of the home, centered the small tables at which the guests were seated; but, for the tallies and bridge table appointments the theme was varied to a vacation idea.

Prizes awarded at the close of bridge playing on Wednesday also bore out a vacation note, going to Mrs. W. H. Wright for high score and to Mrs. Henry Williams, for second. Bridge was played in the garden.

Present at this first party were the Mesdames Harold Nelson, Henry Williams, Harry LeBard, Robert Mize, Kenneth Sutherland, Arthur May, Loyal King, Charles Swanner, Dexter Ball, John Backus, W. H. Wright, Harry Westover, Edgar Elfstrom, E. T. McFadden, Paul Ragan and John Swanke.

Second Party Thursday

Yesterday's party was more informal, the guests dispensing with bridge and spending the afternoon talking about the vacations they have just had or are planning for the near future, and some knitting while they visited.

Mrs. Huffman's guests on this second afternoon were Mrs. Mortimer Plum, Mrs. Bob Fernandez, Mrs. E. D. Holmes, jr., Mrs. Roy Langley, Mrs. Milo Tedstrom, Mrs. H. J. Howard and Mrs. Anton Segerstrom.

The hostess' two charming young daughters, Miss Betty Ann and Miss Harriette LaRue Huffman, assisted their mother in serving yesterday.

BIRTHDAY PARTY IN CULVER CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wolven of East Bishop street and Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Alleman of South Parton have planned a delightful fourscme party for this evening to celebrate the birthdays of the two feminine members of the group.

Mrs. Wolven's birthday anniversary of yesterday and Mrs. Alleman's today from the double incentive for the dinner party for which the two couples will drive to King's Tropical inn over at Culver City. Later, they plan to attend the theater.

BIRTHDAY PARTY OUT AT PARK

C. F. Angell was the honored guest last night at a small family gathering and a steak dinner out at Orange county park, the party being planned by his son, Frank Angell, in honor of the former's birthday anniversary, which is today.

Gathering to mark the anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Angell and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Angell and son, Kenneth.

HOUSE COATS ARE MANNISH

As tailored as a man's dressing gown is this traveling robe of eggshell acetate moire ready for sleeping car, liner or hotel. Black rayon satin collar and cuffs add a smart touch. Some fashionable travelers make their lounging robes harmonize with toilet sets. The black touches on this robe are reflected in a toilet set of black plastic material.

BOAT TRIPS AMONG LATE SUMMER PLANS

George Briggs of 644 North Broadway left recently on the S. S. Emma Alexander for Alaska, where he will hunt big game in the Stikine river country. He will return some time late in the fall.

On the same boat went A. M. Bradley, Santa Ana attorney, with plans for an earlier return, about Aug. 21.

These are only two of the many late vacation trips planned by Orange countians this week with the aid of H. Louis Hanson and the World Travel bureau.

Plans were made for a picnic supper of the entire organization in Anaheim park, Aug. 20. Mrs. Elizabeth Bickness, 516 West Second street, invited the executive board to hold its next meeting at her home.

WOMEN SCRIBES CONVENE AT NEWPORT BEACH

Orange county's coastline lured coed scribes from across the country this week for the fourth biennial convention of Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalism sorority, which closes tonight after a five-day session at Newport-Balboa presided over by Miss Rita Padway of Beverly Hills, national president.

With the Greenwood cottages as headquarters, the house party conclave opened Monday with ritualistic candlelight initiation ceremonies for new pledges in the evening. Business sessions began Tuesday, and that evening an excursion to Laguna Beach provided the collegiate delegates with opportunity for a tour of art and souvenir shops, dancing and moonlight dips.

Gaieties Mark Week

Round table discussions and an all-California dinner featuring indigenous Mexican, Russian and Chinese culinary specialties preceded a stunt night program on Wednesday, and election of officers and other business was enlivened by a wienie bake and motor boat fun on Newport bay yesterday.

Today, the campus journalists drove to Los Angeles for a tour of the new Times building, a luncheon with film stars, afternoon tea served at the tennis courts and plunge of the Beverly Hills home of the president, and a formal banquet in the evening at the Garden of Allah in Hollywood, with Marguerite Harrison, who was selected by AXA as outstanding woman writer, as guest of honor.

Two Hostess Chapters

Hostesses of the convention are members and alumnae of Nu chapter at U. C. L. A. and Zeta chapter at U. S. C., headed by Marjorie Strauss and Elaine Enyeart.

Committee members assisting them include Miriam Ronkin, Roberta Valentine, Peggy Foster, Esther Farr, Ruth Coine, Lillian Wurzel, Alice Tilden, Josephine Conduit, Ruth Stein Carter and Martha VanBuskirk Halderman.

Special banquet guests invited include honorary members of Alpha Chi Alpha, among them Alma Whitaker, Mary Holland Kincaid, Eleanor Barnes and Grace Walker Smith.

Should Wife Tell Husband of Letters She Exchanged with Lifelong Man Friend?

By MARY STODDARD

There are times when silence is NOT golden.

One of these occasions is when a husband or wife plays a few cards when the other's back is turned.

A perfect illustration of what I mean is contained in the following letter from a wife:

Dear Mary Stoddard: Most everyone has some type of problem that they would like advice on. So here is mine:

I have been married four years and we have had so many rivers to cross and now at last we have an humble home of our own. I'm satisfied with my home and my mate and would do nothing to purposely harass our union.

Recently I received a letter from an old friend. We went to school together and were great pals for years. He has always been to me an understanding brother and I want his friendship.

I have been writing to him without my husband's knowledge, and as I know it isn't altogether fair to him, should I discontinue my correspondence with this lifelong friend?

I have thought often of telling my husband about this, but as I don't want to hurt him, have kept quiet. He is very sensitive and not very tolerant of things he thinks aren't just so.

Should I give up this correspondence that I have derived much pleasure from, or should I continue writing to this man friend as well as I would to any of my girl friends? Our letters are entirely blameless and those of sincere friends.

I would appreciate your viewpoint and also those of your readers.

Sincerely,
LYNN.

Suppose, "Lynn," you try to reverse the situation. Put yourself in your husband's place and then try to draw a fair conclusion.

If you should learn that your husband was carrying on a secret correspondence with a life-long girl friend, that he was doing so without your knowledge, would it appear harmless to you?

If you do not feel that you can explain this friendship to your husband in such a way that he will understand, don't you think it would be far better to discontinue it than to bring suspicion on your head and unhappiness into your home?

LAGUNA BEACH SUMMER HOME PARTY SETTING

Calling together a few close friends and their houseguests, Mrs. O. H. Egge, Miss Frances Egge, and Miss Bess Wood were hostesses at a luncheon Wednesday at the attractive summer home of the O. Egges at Laguna Beach.

Following luncheon, the diversions for the afternoon were varied, some playing cards, some just visiting, and all enjoying the beautiful scenery of Laguna.

Those who participated in the pleasant occasion were Mrs. George Perkins of Santa Ana and her houseguests, Mrs. E. B. Astabrook and son, Ted Estabrook, jr., the two latter from Germantown, Pa.; Mrs. W. H. Harrison of this city, and her niece, Miss Katherine Borg of Missoula, Mont.; Mrs. J. W. Simpson, Miss Genevieve Humiston, Santa Ana, and sister, Miss Dorothy Humiston of Cedar Falls, Iowa; Mrs. A. W. Rutan and daughters, the Misses Harriett and Margaret Rutan, and the hostesses.

MRS. GLEN LYCAN ENTERTAINS AT LUNCHEON

With members of the Thursday luncheon club as her guests, Mrs. Glen Lycan entertained yesterday at her home, 1023 West Camille street.

Pink amaryllis decorated the dining room and other rooms where cards were played after luncheon. Score awards went to Mrs. William Sylvester and Mrs. Charles Ryan.

Those present included Mesdames B. E. Dawson, Walter Wright, Al Adrain, Elmer Smith, Ora Jennings, Elon Roehm, William Sylvester, Charles Rayan, William Dean and the hostess, Mrs. Glen Lycan.

ARMESES CLUB TO BAKE STEAKS

With husbands of members as guests, Armeses club will meet at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith, 1412 West Sixth street, for a covered dish luncheon and steak bake.

DAVISES WILL LEAVE NEXT WEEK FOR NORTH

Mrs. C. V. Davis and Miss Barbara Davis will leave next week for Berkeley, making reservations at Berkeley Inn for a month. Miss Davis will enter the University of California when it opens Aug. 20, and will make arrangements for her residence while her mother is there.

Mr. Davis will go up the end of the month, joining his wife for a short trip before they return home.

POSTPONE PARTY FOR FAHOLOS

Plans for a party for First Baptist Faholo class, originally slated for Monday evening, has been suspended, class officers announced today.

The affair will be postponed until September. New plans for the entertainment will be made within a few weeks.

KOOL KOOKERY

Dedicated to helping Santa Anans arrange cooling meals with a minimum effort and cooking, this column will present daily a recipe appropriate for hot-weather menus.

Mrs. E. A. Elwell has a recipe for ice cream that might well be entered in a contest for "least trouble" recipes. With fresh fruit, it makes a delicious dish for last-minute company.

She whips a cup of cream and a package of junket powder together, then adds two cups of milk and pours it into a refrigerator tray to cool.

When about half-frozen, she adds sliced fruit and returns it to the refrigerator. From starting time to serving, it takes no more than half an hour, she says.

Routine Needed For Skin Care

By JACQUELINE HUNT

Nature gave you a good skin to start with, but it takes a lot of common sense to keep it good! You make your own blemishes by indiscretions in your diet, by allowing yourself to become lazy and your circulation sluggish, by applying new makeup over old, by leaving makeup on your skin overnight.

Failure to cleanse the skin properly at night is the primary cause of most common blemishes like blackheads, oiliness, enlarged pores and pimples.

Every woman should have a carefully worked out beauty routine for evening that includes a thorough cleansing and toning treatment, and extra attention to any special condition that needs correction.

Brushing your hair should be the first step on your evening beauty program. Pin back off your face and fasten a gauze band around your head to protect the hair while you use your cleansing cream or other cosmetics.

Use a quick-melting cream on your face for its preliminary cleansing. Wipe this off with tissue, repeat if necessary and wash thoroughly with tepid water and bland soap. Rinse with warm and then cool water.

Now if your skin needs stimulating and softening, apply a film of softening cream and take one of the little patters or use your fingertips and go over your skin with swift little pats, working outward and upward from the point of your chin. Pat from the base of the neck up to the jawbones. Circle the eyes with gentle strokes of the fingertips.

When the skin is pink and glowing, wipe away the excess cream and pat briskly with a pad of cotton that has been squeezed out of ice water and moistened with skin tonic or astringent. If your skin is inclined to be a bit loose, use a fairly strong astringent and let it dry naturally on your skin.

Now brush your teeth, have a quick bath and give your hands their five minutes going over and massage with a good hand cream or oily lotion.

Serve Chewy Dishes

By JUDITH WILSON

Contrast in flavor and texture are the goal of every menu-maker, and the agreeable soft foods are considerably enhanced by others of chewier texture.

Here is an excellent recipe for those who like to use their teeth:

Cinnamon Buns

Sift 3 cups flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt together. Cut in 4 tablespoons shortening. Beat 1 egg slightly in a measuring cup and add ¾ cup cold water. Mix the liquid with the dry ingredients to make a soft dough. Turn out on a floured board and knead lightly to smooth the dough. Roll 3-8 of an inch thick. Spread with softened butter, cover with 2-3 cup currants and sprinkle liberally with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll up and cut off pieces 2 inches thick. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a skillet, add ½ cup dark corn syrup. Place the buns, cut side up in the pan. Bake in a moderate oven until the buns are done. Invert the skillet to turn out the cinnamon rolls immediately. Serve while still warm with the sticky side up. Nuts may be sprinkled in the pan before the buns are put in if you wish.

TWO ARE GUESTS OF C. E. MORSES

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Morse, 150 North Ross street, have as their houseguest for several weeks Mrs. Morse's sister, Miss Carrie Fitton, Los Angeles.

Another summer visitor at their home is their granddaughter, Wilma Thweatt, who will remain until school opens before returning to her home in Glendale.

Workers Need Health Routine

By CLAUD CHRISMAN, M. D.

We have all seen difficulties that many farmers, gardeners and florists endure from ivy and oak poisoning.

But as industry becomes more complicated, and the use of chemicals, dyes and various metals have entered into the products of our factories, the question of resulting skin diseases has become an increasing problem.

Some industries do not employ those who are subject to skin irritants. An effort is also made to shift these cases to other work when possible. But so many things cause inflammation of the skin that it may be almost impossible entirely to eliminate them by exclusion.

How It Begins

Irritation may start from the mere closing of the skin pores with oil, dust, metal filings, acids and alkalies. It may start as a little eczemous patch, a little redness and itching and end with boils and severe local poisoning.

Each industry has its own peculiar trouble, depending on the nature of its work. Arsenic is a cause of trouble in many industries. This is used in the coloring of wall paper, artificial flowers and chalk, in the dyeing of skins and fabrics, the manufacture of automobile batteries and in electroplating works and many others.

Causes Are Many

Copper, brass, zinc, nickel are all the cause of trouble for many folks. Miners suffer from many skin troubles due to dust and the irritating acids present in the mine products. Tar and crude oil, soot, lamp black, turpentine, mercury are all frequent sources of trouble.

Dr. Arthur E. Schiller, in a magazine article on skin diseases, recommends these preventive measures:

Precautions Given

(1) On entering the factory, each workman should wash his hands and forearms with warm water and soap, using a sawdust and liquid soap preparation.

(2) After drying the skin with an individual towel he should apply lanolin or lanolin and castor oil and rub in well.

(3) A foreman should inspect each worker and see that he carries out this procedure.

(4) At noon, before eating lunch, the workman should wash hands and forearms with warm water and soap, and on returning to work, repeat the morning schedule.

(5) The precautions must be observed at the close of the day as well, if future suffering and loss of time are to be avoided.

GARDEN SUPPER SLATED AUG. 14 AT WORKMANS'

With the grill garden at the home of Drs. James and Estelle Workman, 1906 Valencia street, as a setting, the Chiropractic Laymen's auxiliary will meet at 6:30 p. m., Aug. 14, for a pot-luck supper.

Miss Evelyn E. Scherbert, Mrs. Blanche Baxter and Mrs. Urban Buchheim constitute the committee in charge. Members are to furnish meat for grilling, and table service. Coffee, cream, sugar and rootbeer will be supplied by the auxiliary.

Hawaiian music will be played during the evening by a stringed orchestra from the recreational project, and "beano" is to be played. Each member is invited to bring a friend.

SUGGESTS:

FOCUSING ON THE SALAD!!

We're right in the middle of the salad season now and salad meals are in great demand. Many requests have come to me for new and different salad ideas. So I have gathered together several recipes and suggestions which have been sent in by interested friends and here they are:

Filled Cheese Rings

To a pint sour lemon gelatine add 1 cup whipped cream and 1 jar Roquefort cheese spread. Beat well and pour into a ring mold rinsed in cold water. When hard, turn out on a chop plate and fill the center with fresh cooked peas, finely diced celery or cabbage and a few walnut meats, all marinated in French dressing. Around the outside of the ring place alternate slices of pineapple, orange and grapefruit sections.

Dinner Plate Salad

In one lettuce cup place a tomato stuffed with diced left-over meat or meat loaf mixed with finely chopped cooked macaroni and mayonnaise to which a chopped dill pickle is added.

In a second cup place a crisp potato salad mixed with an equal quantity of shredded raw carrots.

In the third lettuce cup place a half pear covered with a dressing made by thinning cream cheese with preserved ginger syrup and adding a little chopped preserved ginger and a spoonful of mayonnaise.

Chicken Ring de Luxe

Make a well seasoned vegetable aspic. (Plain gelatine with meat broth used for liquid.) To this add diced cooked carrots, string beans and celery. Pour into a ring mold and chill. Turn out on large platter and fill the center with chicken salad. The chicken salad is made by adding an equal quantity of diced pineapple and cucumber to diced chicken meat. Mix with French dressing and sprinkle sliced almonds over the top. Garnish with dots of mayonnaise topped with a slice of stuffed olive around the outside of the ring.

Stuffed Eggs in Tomato Cups

Hollow out large tomatoes and in the bottom of the cavity place a little well seasoned cole slaw. On top place a half a deviled egg topped with a strip of anchovy. Serve these tomatoes on a bed of coarsely chopped curly endive or escarolle. In a lettuce cup alongside serve a peeled fresh fig which has been cut in two lengthwise and a filling of soft cream cheese spread between the halves.

Heart of Artichoke, Neptune

1 crab
1 cup French Dressing*
2 hard cooked eggs
1 head celery
1½ cups broth or canned consomme
1 medium tomato
1 head lettuce
4 cooked artichoke hearts
14 stuffed green olives
12 anchovy fillets

Remove crab from the shell, saving at least 12 large pieces from the legs. Flake the remainder and marinate in fresh dressing. Cut one egg in thin crosswise slices, and separately press the yolk and the white of the other through a wire sieve. Trim off top of head of celery and cut in two lengthwise. Cook in broth or consomme. Let cool in broth and cut in 2-inch lengths before using. Peel and slice tomato in four slices. In center place a mound of grated egg white with a ring of the yolk around outer edge of tomato slice. Arrange best leaves of lettuce in a cup on each salad plate. Shred remaining leaves and place in center of the plate. On this place artichoke heart filled with flaked crab. On top place a slice of egg and in the center of the egg a slice of stuffed olive. Arrange three large whole pieces of crab—like wheel spokes — around the base of the artichoke.

In the three divisions thus formed place the following: Three stuffed olives wrapped in anchovy filets, slice of tomato decorated with grated egg, and celery cooked until tender in broth or canned consomme. 4 servings.

In hotels Sauce Estragon is passed with this salad. It consists of mayonnaise to which has been added finely chopped cooked mushrooms, shallots, parsley, and tarragon leaves. A similar dressing may be made in the home by making mayonnaise with tarragon vinegar; then adding finely chopped parsley, onion, and broiled mushrooms.

*French Dressing (1 Cup)

⅔ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons Tarragon vinegar
½ teaspoon salt

25 Still Missing In Mine Tragedy

BARNSLEY, York, Eng., (AP)—Weary rescue crews returned today to the grim task of searching for the bodies of 25 miners who apparently died in coal mine explosion.

The 25 were officially listed as missing, but prospects for their rescue alive were termed "hopeless" after bodies of 32 fellow workers had been brought out of the wrecked workings.

The 57 men on the night shift of the Wharncliff, Wood, Moor Company mine were entombed early yesterday by a terrific blast which plunged coal and rock down on them. Only one man reached the top alive.

Man Arrested for Unique Plan to Find His Brother

DENVER, (AP)—Patrolman Earl L. Barry and William Flor said they detained a man who gave the name of Lee R. Napier of Kansas City, Kan., after he was found executing a unique plan to effect a reunion with his brother.

Barry and Flor said they hailed Napier when they found him atop a telephone pole sawing a cable.

"I just got into town and wanted to see my brother," Barry and Flor said Napier told them. "I didn't know where he lived but I knew he was a repair man for the telephone company. So I figured that if I cut a telephone cable the company would send him out to fix it, and then we'd have a reunion."

REUNION OF IOWANS IS SATURDAY

Long Beach Gathering to Draw Many From Orange County

It will be a great day tomorrow for Iowans and former Iowans.

For the annual summer picnic reunion, which annually attracts 100,000 or more persons, will be held Saturday at Bixby park, Long Beach. Scores of Orange county folk who hail from the "tall corn" state will be on hand with picnic lunches.

Members of the Golden Wedding club will present a pageant, it was announced, and a dance will be another feature. County registers, badges, and free coffee will be provided.

Because of the large number of Iowans who have settled in Orange, Los Angeles, and other southern counties, the annual picnic is the largest event of its kind in the state.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: One by one most of Inspector Hylton's clues to the murderer of old Arthur Burdett have faded out. But just as he is about to start afresh, an accidental encounter with a tramp gives him proof that Dale Shipley, old Burdett's half nephew, was alone in the immediate neighborhood of his uncle's house, and at precisely the time of the murder. The tramp is trying to explain how he came to have Dale's cigaret case, and giving away something much more important to Hylton and Sergeant of Police White.

Chapter 25

HALF AN HOUR

"And in the course of the conversation you stole his cigaret case?" Hylton asked.

This was precisely what Alf Durley, being an expert pickpocket, had done; but having told the strict truth for five minutes or so consecutively, he felt that a little deviation into the realms of imagination was now not only permissible but highly desirable.

"Guvnor," he said with great earnestness, "swelp me bob, when the young toff suddenly goes off and leaves me there, what do I see lying on the ground? This 'ere case. Corse I picked it up."

Hylton laughed and dismissed the matter for the moment with a wave of his hand.

"Never mind about that for the present," he said. "Read out what you've got down, White, and see if Durley agrees with it."

Alf Durley nodded lugubriously after the reading.

"What did you do then?" Hylton asked. "Go up to the Court?"

"Up to the big 'ouse? No, that I didn't, Mister. I came straight into Enderton, that's what I did, why I was in the 'oops 'aving a pint before eight. I can prove it."

"All right. I daresay we can check that." Hylton drew out one of his black cigars. "Ring up Morechester, Sergeant, and tell 'em to have a cell ready; we'll have to keep you for the night, Durley."

"What, keep me guv'nor! Whatfor?"

"Technically on a charge of stealing by finding, but I'll see it doesn't come to anything if you behave yourself and help us."

Mr. Alfred Durley felt too aggrieved to argue. He contained himself in a dignified and injured silence until the police car came from Morechester to take him to his night's free lodging.

The moment Durley had gone the Inspector began to talk. Let's have a look at that map of yours, White—good—where are we? Fielden cottage—here; now then Fielden cottage to Ferney house, here's the obvious way to go, by road. How far do you make it?"

"I always reckon it just about a mile, sir."

"So does the map, a shade under if anything. How long would Dale Shipley take to walk a mile?"

"About a quarter of an hour."

"Give him twenty minutes at the outside. He left Fielden cottage at a quarter to seven, when does he arrive at Ferney house?"

"Seven o'clock or five past, sir?"

"After half past, White."

The Sergeant whistled.

"Exactly. I've checked those times up pretty accurately. Mr. Shipley's got half an hour to explain away somehow. Let's have another look at the map, where's that side lane that runs up to the back drive of the Court?"

"Here, sir."

White shook his head. "It's off his route, sir, that's certain."

Hylton pushed the map away and lit his cigar. "Well," he said, "Mr. Shipley may be able to explain away that half hour and the side lane business; all I can say is I shall be very interested to hear what the explanation is.

And look here, Sergeant," he leaned over the table and waved his cigar at the attentive White, "it isn't only the half hour business. Just see how Shipley fits in. We know (though he doesn't know we know it) that he had a row with the old boy only last week, and that as a result he was cut out of the will entirely. It's a million to one Burdett told him that, and anyone who has suddenly lost a matter of sixty thousand through an old man's spite is apt to feel a trifle sore. That gives us motive.

"Shipley would know that Lumsdale would be out on a Monday, of course; and moreover when old Burdett went to the door and saw his nephew there he wouldn't hesitate to let him in. Opportunity. And White, oh White, just think about the clubs, how beautifully clear it makes that."

"Well, I can't say I quite tumble to it, inspector.

Young Shipley leaves his place at a quarter to seven. He knows that his uncle, whom he never liked, has cut him out entirely from the will and so ruined all he was looking forward to. He's stone-cold, consuming angry. He gets to the Court just after seven and rattles on the door, his stick behind his back. The old man shuffles over the hall and opens the door a few inches.

"'I say, Uncle, I want to have a word with you and apologize about that row the other day.'

"Burdett mumbles something and undoes the chain. They go into the little sitting room together.

"In the room old Burdett whips around on him. 'Sucking up to me now to try and get the money back, eh? Well, you won't,' something like that, and Shipley's control snaps, out flies his stick and out run the old man's brains.

"Then with a rush he begins to realize things. He hasn't fingered anything; no finger prints; but his stick is what worries him. Shipley isn't a fool, he keeps his head, and there and then he thinks of a darned clever trick. He spots those heavy clubs up on the wall, stands on a chair and gets one down; on second thought he brings the other down too and hangs it on the lower nail. Then he takes one of them and deliberately smears the end of it in the general mess on the old man's head—hallo, what's up?"

The Sergeant had turned quite pale.

"My God, sir," he said, swallowing hard, "you quite turned me up the way you tell it."

"Not nice, is it? But I think it's what he did, and clever too, because we never thought of looking any farther for the weapon at first. Then he picks up his stick and, carrying it carefully, goes out of the front door. Cali it 7:30, no more. Half way down the back drive he wipes the end of his stick in the grass under the hedge—no one is going to find that."

Singer Changes Tune and Skunk Walks Off Stage

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y. (AP).—While 7,000 persons were listening to George Britton, operatic singer, Tuesday night, a skunk walked onto the stage in the open air auditorium.

Britton, who was singing a spiritual, suddenly stopped singing, then broke into "I Got Plenty of Nothin'." The skunk scurried for the woods.

THREE BLACK LEGION MEN CONVICTED

Trio Are Found Guilty of Falsely Imprisoning Member; 3 Freed

DETROIT. (AP)—Three of six men charged at the first Black Legion trial with kidnaping and flogging a fellow member, were convicted today by Judge Joseph A. Moynihan of false imprisonment. The other three defendants were acquitted of all charges.

Convicted were Thomas F. Cox, a mill hand; Earl Angstadt and Frederick A. Gulley.

The statute governing false imprisonment, the reduced charge on which the men were convicted, provides for a fine of $2500, or five years imprisonment, or both.

Acquitted were Charles D. King, former village trustee of suburban Ecorse; Wilbur Robinson, who admitted he was a brigadier general in the Black Legion; and Harold Lawrence, a steel worker and cult official.

Judge Moynihan held there was no evidence of a kidnaping or flogging, but ruled that the three convicted men falsely imprisoned their fellow member, Robert Penland, in taking him unwillingly to a meeting.

The continued flow of cheerful news from the business and industrial front pushed traders aggressively to the buying side, Wall Street circles said. The close was firm. Tranefers approximated 1,700,000 shares.

The Story of Our Missions

Twenty-one Franciscan missions were founded in California by the Rev. Fray Junipero Serra, extending from San Diego to what is now Sonoma county. They are among California's priceless landmarks. The state department of public works has prepared brief histories of them with directions on how to reach them. They will be taken up in the order of their locations from south to north, rather than in the sequence of their founding. The fourteenth installment, telling the story of how Father Serra founded Mission Neustra Senora de la Soledad, follows.

MISSION NEUSTRA SENORA DE LA SOLEDAD
Founded Oct. 9, 1791

Thirteenth of the Franciscan stations established in California, Mission Neustra Senora de la Soledad endured many trials and tribulations and came to an unusually sad end.

Its isolated location, lack of true missionary spirit on the part of its first resident padres and the dire privations its priests and Indian neophytes suffered under Mexican civil and military governments accounted for its rather tragic history.

Dedicated to Most Holy Mary, Our Lady of Solitude, the mission was given the name of Soledad, the origin of which is not definitely known. Fr. Englehardt, mission historian, quotes Fr. Pedro Font, chaplain of Captain Juan B. Anza's expedition, which discovered the first overland route from Senora, Mexico, to San Francisco, as offering the best explanation.

How It Was Named

Anza stopped at Soledad on his journey and recording the visit in his journal, Fr. Font, on March 9, 1776, wrote: "We stopped at a placed called Soledad, and they told me that it was thus called because on the first expedition of Portola (September, 1769) they asked an Indian his name, who answered Soledad; at least it sounded that way to them."

Fr. Fermin Francisco de Lasuen, who succeeded Fr. Serra as presidente of the California missions, himself founded Mission Soledad on Sunday, Oct 8, 1791. He was assisted by Fr. Buenaventura Sitjar of Mission San Antonio de Padua, and Fr. Diego Garcia.

Authorization to found Mission Soledad came to Fr. Lasuen from Viceroy Revilla Gigedo of Mexico or Aug. 2, 1790, on the same ship that brought to Monterey four Franciscan missionaries assigned to serve in California. Church goods that were to have been shipped on the same vessel failed to arrive and in a circular issued July 22, 1791, Fr. Lasuen called upon the other missions to contribute what they could to Soledad. This they did gladly, whereupon Fr. Lasuen proceeded to Soledad and established the new mission.

"This place, then, is constituted a mission dedicated in honor of the Most Sorrowful Mystery of the Solitude of Most Holy Mary, Our Lady," wrote Fr. Lasuen in recording the founding of the station. "In virtue of the faculty received from the Apostolic College of the Propagation of the Faith of San Fernando de Mexico, I named as its first missionaries the Rev. Fathers Preachers Apostolic, Fr. Diego Garcia of the Provincia de Los Angeles, and Fr. Mariano Rubi of the provincia de Mallorca."

After four months, Fr. Garcia was transferred to San Antonio and Fr. Bartolomi Gili was sent to Soledad.

The selection of Fr. Gili and Fr. Rubi to be the resident missionaries at Mission Soledad was unfortunate. Fr. Engelharde, historian, has this to say about the two priests:

"Two friars were in charge who had made a bad record for themselves in Mexico, nor should they have been allowed to proceed to California, of all places where such characters could be least acceptable. Unfortunately for the good name of the missionary college of San Fernando de Mexico, Viceroy Manuel Antonio de Flores, for reasons not divulged by him, held a protecting hand over them when they should have been expelled. * * * He objected to the expulsion of the two men who wore the garb of Franciscans, but behaved like hoodlums while at the seminary of San Fernando."

Liked Missionary Spirit

Fr. Engelhardt treats of the subject of these two friars at some length because their conduct reflected upon the splendid records made by all the other Franciscan padres in California. He says, quoting Fr. Pangua, that the situation hastened the death of Fr. Guardian Palou, who "found nothing else to do than weep like a child, and from fear locked himself in his cell."

Fr. Engelhardt gives the two priests credit for behaving themselves at Soledad, but regrets that both lacked missionary spirit, complained of their surroundings and hardships and did not set a good example in faith and patience to the Indians. Nevertheless, they enrolled numerous converts during their year at the mission. Fr. Rubi was sent back to Mexico in January, 1793, and the following month Fr. Garcia was recalled from San Antonio mission. A year later, Fr. Gili returned to Mexico.

On Dec. 31, 1800, Soledad had 1000 cattle, 3000 sheep and 64 horses, and the Indian community consisted of 521 souls. In 1802 an epidemic, the nature of which is not known, caused the death of many Indians. Notwthstanding all the difficulties that beset Soledad, Fr. Engelhardt says that the mission population increased until 1805 when it reached the highest mark in its history with 688 neophytes. After that, he adds, for lack of savages to convert and owing to disease communicated by Mexican soldiers, the Indian community dwindled so that by 1810 it had the smallest number of converts of all the missions except San Carlos.

Missions' Friend Dies

Governor Jose Joaquin de Arrillaga, great friend of the Franciscans, while on a tour of inspection in 1814, was taken ill and hastened to Mission Soledad to be near Fr. Florencio Ibanez. There he died on July 24. He was given burial beneath the chapel, an appropriate resting place for the man whose term in office has been called by Fr. Engelhardt the "Golden Age of the Missions."

Following the revolt in Mexico against Spain the burden of feeding and clothing the soldiers of the California garrisons was placed upon the missions, the Mexican government having stopped shipments of rations, clothing and pay to the military. Wherefore, Gov. Jose de Arguello in February, 1815, wrote to Fr. Vincente Francisco de Sarria, commissary perfect of the Franciscans, that the soldiers of the presidios of San Francisco and Monterey and their families were destitute, and asked for flour and blankets for them.

Fr. Sarria requested the missions to make contributions and Fr. Antonio Jayme at Soledad gave 5000 pounds of flour and some clothing. A year later, Jan. 5, 1816, Mission Soledad again was called upon for woolen cloth. So poor was it that Fr. Jayme replied that wool was scarce at Soledad, but that he would "beg some from the other missions." He managed, somehow, to forward 25 blankets, made by his Indians, to Monterey.

Took Independence Oath

The Mexican government demanded that its subjects in California swear allegiance to the new republic and on May 5, 1822, the padres at Soledad and their Indian wards held a meeting and took the oath of independence. They were authorized to elect a representative for the electorial convention at Monterey which would chose a delegate to the Mexican congress. The record of the election at Mission Soledad, the first and last accorded the Indians, makes interesting reading. It follows:

"At the Mission of Our Lady of Soledad, this day, Sunday, Nov. 19, 1826, I, the chief Alcade Geronimo, last night summoned the people to come to church. All being assembled, we attended our holy mass and commended ourselves to the Blessed Virgin to give us a good heart that we may do what the commandante of the presidio has directed us to do. After hearing holy mass, we went out of the church, and being together with the people, I named Senor Simon Cota, who can write, as my secretary, and I chose two scrutators, Odilon Quepness and Felipe de Jesus. Then out of all the people 11 were set apart as the commandante prescribed, whereupon all the people retired except the 11. They talked among themselves whom all of the men of the mission they should send to Monterey. Three wanted Fernando, one was in favor of Isidro, two preferred Valentin, and four Juan de Dios. Then all 10 concluded that Juan de Dios was the man whom God desires to go to the commandante of Monterey, and hold himself subject to his orders. And this is to be known by all the people, and his paper we all that are here present will sign, affixing thereto a cross because we cannot write; and Juan de Dios will carry it with him. Before me, Simon Cota, secretary of the junta."

Reports kept at Soledad by the resident padres were not as informative as those maintained at the other missions, hence portions of its history are rather sketchy. In 1824, Fr. Uria reported that the church had been repaired and fortified. In 1826 he recorded the acquisition of a number of church goods. At the end of 1828, Fr. Pedro Cabot noted that tiles and bricks were being made for reconstructing existing buildings. He reported a smithy and carpentershop in operation. Toward the end of that year, Fr. Perfect Sarria went to Soledad to reside and in December, 1832, recorded that "A provisional church building, sufficiently apt for divine worship, had been erected, because the church existed before had collapsed in consequence of floods."

Only a few Indians remained at Soledad in this year. Alfred Robinson, noted traveler, visited the mission in 1830 and wrote: "It was near sundown when we arrived and dismounted at the door of La Soledad, the gloomiest, bleakest and most abject-looking spot in California."

It was in this desolate place that Fr. Sarria, even though in high command of the Franciscan missions, decided to live and die that he might be near his Indian wards. The decree of Governor Figueroa confiscating all missions and dated Nov. 4, 1834, joined Soledad and Mission San Antonio and made them a curacy of the second class. Fr. Sarria, ill nourished and worn out, died at Soledad on Sunday, May 24, 1835. He was buried at Mission San Antonio.

In August of that year, civil commissioners took an inventory at Soledad and placed a value of $47,297.12 upon the mission and property. In 1841, Mofras visited the mission and wrote: "Now not one Indian, nor one head of livestock is encountered. All has gone to ruin. The vinewards are abandoned, the gardens uncultivated, and the fruit trees in the orchards grow wild for want of pruning."

In June, 1846, Gov. Pio Pico sold Soledad to Feliciano Soberanes for $800. Bancroft, the historian, says that a year before an inventory valued the mission and property at $2494.

President James Buchanan returned Mission Soledad to the Catholic church in November, 1859.

In 1904, George Wharton James, on his tour of the California missions, wrote of Soledad:

"Over the entrance of the church—the ruins of which now bring sadness to the hearts of all who care—is a niche in which a statute of Our Lady of Solitude—La Soledad—used to stand. Methinks that if the ghost of things that were exist, surely a weeping ghost of the Lady of Solitude haunts these deserted and forlorn ruins. Weep! weep on! for the church of Our Lady of Solitude. It is entirely in ruins."

And some such sentiment must stir in the hearts of all who visit the ruins of La Soledad today.

The ruins of La Soledad are easily reached by the visitor to the California missions. They are located just north of Soledad in Monterey county on the Coast highway, U. S. 101. Southern Pacific trains stop at Soledad. Motorists coming either from the north or south will use the Coast highway.

From San Joaquin valley points the route is from Hanford west through Lemoore and Coalinga to San Lucas over the Sierra to the Sea highway, thence north on U. S. 101 through King City and Greenfield to Soledad. The mission visitor should take a side trip from Soledad to the famous Pinnacles National monument, one of the most attractive scenic spots in the state.

PIONEER LOCAL WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Ferrena Schroeder, Santa Ana pioneer woman, died this morning at her home, 1726 Bush street. The 80-year-old woman was a native of Switzerland. With her husband, Fred Schroeder, she had lived in Santa Ana for the past 55 years.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by five daughters, Mrs. H. D. Witt, Orange; Mrs. W. C. Mauerhan, Anaheim; Mrs. Henry Marquart, Orange; Mrs. Herbert Greenwald, Santa Ana; Mrs. Howard Pattee, Claremont; a son, Otto F. Schroeder, Santa Ana, and a sister, Mrs. J. M. Schaefer, Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the First Evangelical church, Tenth and Main streets, with Smith and Tuthill in charge. The Rev. G. G. Schmid will officiate.

RED SCALE HERE INCREASING

Red scale on lemons is increasing rapidly in the Whittier-Orange county area, the bureau of pest control of the California Fruit Growers exchange warned today.

Orchards with infestations heavy enough to damage trees and green fruit should be sprayed during August, but in general spraying should be deferred until September, or better still, October, the bureau said. The spraying should be delayed where possible for less adverse effect on the fruit, as well as more prolonged spider control.

Where work in August seems necessary, heavy-medium or heavy oils should be used, the weight of the oil to be governed by the amount of fruit present susceptible to oil injury, and the likelihood of winter fumigation.

EDISON WOMEN WIN HONOR

Top honors in the 1935-36 yearbook contest of Southern California Edison Women's committees go to Santa Ana this year, according to word just received from the general offices in Los Angeles informing the Santa Ana committee that it had won first prize.

Books are presented to a judging committee at the close of each year's work, and prizes awarded on the basis of educational, social and self development features carried out by the group.

This is the third successive year in which the local committee has placed in the list of prize winners, having received second place the last two years.

Officers of the committee for the year just passed were Mary Belle Adams, chairman, who was re-elected for this year; Lela Hughes, recording secretary, whose successor is Rose Rauscher; Miss Rauscher, corresponding secretary; Faye Bortz, treasurer, and Dorothy Rose Young, librarian.

Regular meetings will be resumed in September, Miss Adams has announced.

O. R. HAAN'S used cars represent values never before equaled. For instance, a car with 100,000 or 150,000 miles' normal life is often driven only 10,000 or 15,000 miles by the original owner—and sold to the second owner at a small percentage of the original cost, spotless, scratchless, modern. Thoroughly reconditioned cars of this caliber may be had NOW.

Crocheted Lace Gives Luxury Touch

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Simple Medallion Makes Cloths, Scarfs, Bedspreads, Pillows or Doilies

PATTERN 5358

"We all envy Mary her lovely lace cloth!" Mary's friends admit, but little do they realize they too can make cloths just as lovely from pattern 5358, an exclusive Alice Brooks design inspired by old Italian lace. All you've to do is crochet the simple squares, one just like another, and it's the joining up that makes the continuous pattern. As quickly and simply as that! Inexpensive, too, for just plain string is used. In pattern 5358 you will find complete instructions for making the square shown; an illustration of it and of all stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth street. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

The Well-Dressed Mermaid

BATHING suit regulation—largely a thing of the imagination in California—may try a comeback at arty Laguna Beach. Mayor Mallow has named a committee to study the problem of getting more clothes on the beach cuties.

Probably there'll be some sort of restriction placed on those very naughty gauzy things in white, shorts-and-halter suits and brassiere-trunk combinations unless joined in the middle

If it is okeh with the committee, we'll refer them to the minutes of the American Association of Park Superintendents at New Orleans in 1916. The park bosses outlawed white or flesh-colored suits. Jersey-knit blouse or bloomer suits were permitted for the first time "with or without stockings." But bloomers must be full and no shorter than four inches above the knee. And no lass should expose her chest below "a line drawn on a level with the arm pits."

Just in case this doesn't cover enough, we suggest the committee consider the bathing beauties of the '90's for inspiration. Those girls wore stockings, gloves, shoes and puff-sleeved bloomer suits that covered every inch of the female form divine below the neck.

But drawing up a set of rules for the girlies will be easy compared to enforcing them. Miss Mermaid of 1936 won't welcome police interference with her choice of apparel for the surf, sand and sun.

That European pact for non-intervention in Spain sounds like an agreement not to pick a poker up by the hot end.

Whither Union Labor?

THERE'S no telling where this rebellion that has split the union labor movement will end. As it stands now, President Green and his craft union followers are cracking the whip over Insurgent John L. Lewis and his industrial union rebels. Green's executive council, in fact, has just suspended from the American Federation of Labor, 10 of the revolting unions, which number 1,000,000 skilled workers and provide $120,000 a year dues.

It is quite possible, judging from the vigorous protests sent in by various disinterested labor organizations, that several other unions may follow the suspended groups out of the A. F. of L.

Where will all these men and their dues go? Probably into the formation of a separate and for a time minority American labor federation.

There is a possibility that such a federation, open to the vast armies of skilled and unskilled workmen in the mass production industries and under vigorous leadership, might in time outstrip the parent organization which is limited to highly skilled artisans in the various crafts.

Then possibly we would see Lewis instead of Green holding the whiphand in an American labor movement which would be much larger and more powerful than the present A. F. of L.

Glad the Government 'Meddled'

THOSE several thousand depositors of the closed D'Auria Bank and Trust company of Newark, N. J., aren't kicking any more about "government interference with business."

Their bank closed its doors July 15. But they didn't lose a dime. Representatives of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation—a government agency—began paying their deposits as soon as an audit was completed.

As the FDIC men handed out the government checks, they explained that the money was not a gift from the government, but that it came from a nation-wide deposit insurance fund that is paid, in the final analysis, by bank depositors themselves.

Everybody's happy in the D'Auria bank neighborhood that the government "meddled" in the banking business.

A Name in Golden Letters

EVERY now and then a name shines forth from the highway death list in the golden letters of heroism. This is true of Jack Watson of Santa Ana who died beneath his heavy truck in order to prevent a collision with two light cars.

Mr. Watson knew he was gambling with death when he swung the big truck out of the way on the loose earth slope. He knew he was taking a chance to save the other fellows. But he didn't falter. And when they pulled the heavy truck off his body, there was the trace of a faint smile on his lips. Of such stuff are heroes made.

Thoughts while strolling: Bully season for the moths anyway. Three weaving shops in a Madison avenue block. Wonder if Fred Drake knows Ted Gander? Overheard: "She rubies her toes." Mme. Camille de Barbac, the real countess housekeeper at the Ritz. Lorgnette and everything.

For the Look the Same as They Did 15 Years Ago club: Bert Lytell. Wonder if Barbara Hutton ever prowled about a Woolworth 5 and 10? Reunion suggestion: The Sunday night fans at the Palace. That thick brogue of Dinty Moore's carriage starter. And the chirpy French and Irish hat check girls.

The Basil Rathbone-looking mounted cop with a posy always tucked in his saddle horn. Nobody can write about circus life like Courtney Ryley Cooper. Or about Ghetto noises and aromas like Fannie Hurst. H. I. Phillips is the only columnist I know with three homes, the plutocrat!

High in color craziness: Oxblood red shirt and grass green four-in-hand. Out-Howards even Roy himself. Every time I see a window of hair brushes I shrink—spanking memories. For the best pair of stage butler side-burns: Emile Coleman. With Lucius Boomer's a runner-up. Top radio philosopher—Jacob Tarshish.

Similar profiles: Ray Bolger and Arthur William Brown. Eddie Duchin for my money, improvising at the piano. And a lusty cheer for Col. Stoopnagle and Budd—filling creditably a tough radio assignment. Add blow torch beards—Bill Lengel's. Did anyone ever see Mr. Harrison Williams?

For her years, Ruth Bryan Owen is the almost perfect physical type of American womanhood. She has the statuesque dignity and charm that commands. Plus a soupcon of the oratorical flair of her distinguished father. Also a keen mind for statesmanship. Too, she has been a devoted mother. She showed her pride in America by piloting her Danish King's guard husband on a honeymoon tour that included Niagara Falls, Yellowstone National Park and sundown tea in the Euclidean dazzle of the Empire's aeyrie. Yet the world perversely continues to flinch and wag tongues at middle-aged romance. Oddly and undeservedly, Mrs. Owen was snipped of much of her popularity.

When Charles Dillingham passed on, his bill at the Hotel Astor, where he maintained an apartment most of his professional life, totalled $23,000. The account was canceled, and long before he died he was told he was welcome without charge so long as he lived. There are a number of instances of such pensioners in New York hotels, notably so since the Wall Street crackup. There are many men and women, too, shorn of funds, who are allowed to stay on, not living perhaps in the former grandeur, but in comfort. This is also true of a number of aged patrons in the large family hotels.

In the center of Central Park, near the old Casino site, is a tree-lined cul de sac for motorists—an oval overlooking a grassy sweep—where in the silky wither of summer evenings cars of the pigeon and squirrel feeders are parked. The vendors of peanuts and shelled corn descend as soon as a car stops. One told me that once a bank teller, then on relief, he is now making as much as he did at the bank. And he added: "I'm my own boss, live in the open and am happier and healthier than I have been for years."

Men of wealth no longer, it would seem, drop everything to chase some beautiful actress about the country as was once a familiar headline. Perhaps the most extravagantly chased of all was the statuesque Lillian Russell. Five millionaires pursued her. One sent $100 worth of flowers to her dressing room nightly. Then there was the man about town, Freddie Gebhardt's, pursuit of Lily Langtry, the Jersey Lily. He sat in the first row every night during a tour of America, and his fabulous gifts and entertainments have never been equaled. In these days he would be America's No. 1 sucker.

Frank Case, of the Algonquin, has a fund of anecdotes rivaling that of the famous Texas raconteur, Col. Tom Ochiltree. Not long ago Frank McIntyre, the actor, stopped at Case's table archly to ask if the actor patronage at the hotel wasn't considerable risk. Case replied: "I never lost a cent on an actor in my life." Said McIntyre: "O, come now. There's that old show-off, Blank. I happen to know he ran out on you with an unpaid bill and never settled."

"But do you really call him an actor?" inquired Case—and that settled that.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: This is a continuation of the Merry-Go-Round drought survey of the Northwest.)

PIERRE, S. D.—People who do not know anything about a drought except what they read in the headlines or see in the newsreels, are apt to think of it only in terms of drama. They visualize cattle standing in the sun, their tongues out, their ribs bulging. They conjure up pictures of farmers hoarding water and rationing it out with an iron hand. They think of houses and fields bursting into flames, with no one able to do anything because water is too precious.

And although all these have a gripping pathetic appeal, a drought must be viewed primarily in terms of economic or social forces.

When the present lack of rainfall became national news a month or so ago, Washington hastily set up commissions and sent investigators out to the stricken areas. First they inquired how long since there had been rain. The answer varied: Two months in some sections, over a year in others.

Next they found that although lack of rain was the most pressing problem, grasshoppers, rust, heat, and dust storms had taken such a toll that the country had reaped only six good crops in 30 years.

This raises the question which many have asked recently about the Northwest. Why did settlers come there in the first place? Why did they stay? Why didn't they leave long ago? In these questions you get down to the basic problem of the drought.

Here is the background:

RAILROAD BOOM

Half a century ago, farmers still pressing westward, were taking advantage of the homestead act, which gave them 160 acres of free land which they agreed to settle and farm. At that time "West" still meant Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Still they came, pushing farther and farther, chiefly Russians, Germans, Swedes, Danes and Norwegians. Some settled in Eastern Dakota, in the "Red River Valley," where the rich, black loam yielded such amazing crops that the fame of this utopian section spread back to the East, bringing out more hordes of settlers.

This was all east of the one-hundredth meridian. West of that meridian, from the Canadian border to Mexico and on west to the Rockies, runs the vast expanse of the great plains, capable of supporting bison and Indians but little else. This section never had more than 10 inches of rain, nor did it have much snow in the winter. It was intended by nature as grazing land, nothing more.

But when the farmers in the Red River valley began to spin tales of the soil out their way, and the farmers from the East began crowding out, the railroads saw an opportunity to boost shipping rates. So they subsidized the real estate companies, and together they put on a high pressure sales campaign, transporting thousands of families to the arid wastes far west of the fertile Red River valley.

WAR BOOM

Until the war, these settlers scraped along, collecting one good crop in three. Then came the war-cry of "wheat, more wheat!" and they planted more wheat. They ploughed up all the grass and planted wheat. Then came dust storms, and the top-soil, no longer held together by grass roots, was carried away.

Cattle was the only crop which prospered occasionally. And what they made on the cattle they put back into the land, hoping against hope for a good crop. But it was always the same story. Drought, dust, wind, heat—never a real return from a year's work.

Then the government began lending—feed loans, mortgages, credit. Soon many farmers were hopelessly in debt and living on relief throughout the year.

"Why didn't they get up and go?"

Go where? With what? Some did, like the Bjornsons. But the majority had no money for food, gas, new land. All they had was invested in their barren farms. So most remained and prayed.

It's the same story today, only more aggravated. That's why most farmers appear so stoical, so unconcerned, despite the papers and newsreels which advertise the plight of the "unhappy farmer." "Unhappy" is right, but when you have been unhappy for 30 years you don't show it much just because the rain holds off longer than usual.

Some are leaving—those who are young, who have some money, or who are so uttely desperate. Every day the cattle cars pull into Minneapolis and St. Paul loaded with drought cattle and sheep. Even then they can't always be sold. Ironically, there are many thousands of Canadian cattle which reciprocal tariff agreement has let into the country also awaiting disposal.

Tugwell's Resettlement is buying up some arid land and turning it into pasture. Over a million acres have been purchased in North Dakota alone, and the purchases are continuing. Families are going to Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota. But most are heading West.

Then there's a large bloc that's staying. Too old, too hard-bitten to give in, too accustomed to the climate to pull up stakes and try again. It's the tough, dogged spirit of the northern European who's come to America, made his own home out of wilderness and raised his children. If he stays he may starve, but he's a "landowner, farmer, master of his acres and respected in the community."

If he leaves he joins a wandering, drifting band, an outcast, unwanted, shunted from place to place. And so, many prefer to battle the elements, the sun, the parched wind, the dust storms, and here they will stay until they die.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Joe Kennedy, ex-chairman of the securities and exchange commission, has written a book on what the New Deal has done for the business man. It is an answer to Warburg's book, "Hell Bent for Election." Earl Venable, secretary of the Republican congressional campaign committee, says no money will be wasted on congressional candidates in the deep South. Aspiring Republicans down there will have to pay for their brass ring if they want to ride to congress.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Democracy Rests in Affections of the People

CLOSE contact with the public more than justifies one's confidence in the intelligence and goodness of common folks. It is amazing how patiently men and women meet the burdens and cares, the worries and troubles of daily living. When the final account of these "days that try men's souls" is written, this wretched depression period, we shall see the story as a great drama of a people's love and devotion, bravely facing the stark realities which haunt their lives.

There is something essentially sound in the American character, which is the greatest asset of free institutions. The people have been shamefully betrayed to all the horrors of needless depression. Millions of our countrymen have felt the humiliation of want and the cold hand of despair. Other millions of us have been dispossessed in the land of our fathers. The present has no promise, the future no hope, for tens of thousands who yet manage to sing bravely the glowing anthems of "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

* * *

Politicians, crafty and selfish, in league with exploiting groups, are loud in their love of the people. They are long on promises but pitifully short on performance. Their honied words drip from silver tongues. Butter wouldn't melt in their mouths. One would think these smooth fellows lie awake nights to think of good deeds to do for the people. They "do" the people up brown, dig themselves in, and listen carefully for their masters' voice.

* * *

Certain groups get the exalted notion that they have a monopoly on intelligence and patriotism. That their way is the only American way. That common folks, the vast mass of people who bear the burdens of government, have neither the wit nor the virtue to carry on. They assume themselves to be smart enough to fool all the people all the time, and that the people should take what's given to them and like it.

* * *

There is no place in American life for such arrogance and power. If democracy means anything, it means that our free institutions must be based on the broad foundations of the general good. It means that all authority must spring from the masses of people themselves. And that nowhere in our American life is there more intelligence, more goodness, more patriotism, more courage than is found in the hearts of common folks. Only in serving the people can social well-being advance to higher levels.

The People

This department belongs to The People. Letters to the editor on various subjects are welcomed and will be published, provided they do not contain abusive and personal references. Their publication does not necessarily imply the opinions they express are shared by The Journal. Letters must be signed, although signatures will be omitted upon request.

THE NEXT WAR

To the Editor: It looks like it is "women and children first" in air raids. We often read that the next war may only last a few weeks or months because the nation that strikes first with air raids and dropping destructive bombs and poison gas on the citizen population will cause such terror that the nation will readily sue for peace or accept defeat.

When enemy airplanes bombard some city (and they pick out the largest) and kill thousands of women and children and other innocents, it's a cinch that the air bombing squadrons of the nation first attacked will retaliate and bombard cities of the other side—more slaughter.

In other words the next war will be directed at women and children, to say nothing of hospitals, orphanages, old people's homes and other home folks who are defenseless.

A nice picture of a war on women and children and helpless people.

I always thought war was between nations' soldiers, armies, navies, airplanes, etc., but not helpless people.

War in prospect is like some big brute with a club beating the life out of a helpless baby.

There is a remedy, but have we big enough men and women in high positions with the ability to try and secure protection for the home folks by seeking some kind of an international agreement between nations that they will not "air attack" large cities or small towns unless that city or town is known to be a place where military activities or military supplies are located?

F. A. COOKE.

BRIGHT MOMENTS

General Israel Putman of the Colonial armies, was one day leading a party of some 40 men along the bank of a small stream. Being well in advance of his party, he was fired upon. In stentoric tones he ordered his men to return the fire. The enemy proved to be a group of provincials who thought they were firing upon the French, and the commander recognizing Putman's voice, cried out that they were all friends. Putman's reply was: "Friends or enemies, they all deserve to be hanged for not killing more when they had so fair a shot."

Remarkable Remarks

We cannot preserve our democracy and our liberties, if, every time someone says something that I do not agree with, I get the chief of police to arrest him.—Dr. Harry W. Ettleson, Chicago rabbi.

* * *

Men do not like obvious women. To be charming, the woman should be the pursued, not the pursuer. Nothing causes a man to lose interest quicker than pursuit by a woman. He likes to feel that he is the "hunter."—Frances Lederer, film star.

* * *

The mere fact of bringing life into the world is not in itself qualification for motherhood. It's what you do with that life afterwards that counts.—Mrs. Frances Eleanor Smith, known as the nation's "ideal mother."

* * *

It must be a matter of just pride of every American that the constitution stands out in simplicity and strength, a challenge to the whole world-wide conspiracy against freedom and liberty of the people.—U. S. Sen. William E. Borah, Idaho.

With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

Conversed with a county official who related an early experience. Court procedure was like an uncharted sea to him, so when he was selected to serve on a jury he chaffed at the delay. Finally he asked the judge if it was proper for a juror to address the court, and the judge replied that there seemed to be plenty of time. So the aforesaid juror proceeded to tell the court that it occurred to him that the trial wasn't getting any place, that they had not selected a jury and it didn't look like they were going to. That there wasn't any use to hold a trial anyway as the defendant was guilty and everybody knew it, so why put the people to extra expense. By this time there was such a hullabaloo that further remarks were denied. When it came time for the attorney to cross examine the prospective juror he couldn't use him.

At last I've found a man who plays golf like I do. He has trouble collecting the clubs and finding the golf course. When he finally arrives he can't find the ball, and by the time he is able to get everything together it's too dark to play.

Some one threw an eight-pound chain out of a second story window at Ray Lambert's head, and he complained about it, but Joe Steele didn't.

Now I've got something started that's interesting. A subject in which I have had a life-long anxiety. The flood. Bibliographically, if there is a "bib," the flood and the ark have intrigued me to the point of anxiety. But I'm on the way to a settlement. Met Charley Van Wyk today, and any time the question of water is presented that boy is interested. He buys water same as I do. So when I suggest the flood question he's interested. Then I tell him about Noah and he wanted his last name and address, and that stopped me. My only safety was behind engineers who claimed the way the ark was built it wouldn't float. Well, says Charley, we'll prove that. I'll build an ark the way Noah built it. That's fine, says I, now all we have to do is to wait for another flood.

The Roy Shaffers and the little Shaffers are at Catalina helping Wrigley run the island. They are going to try and stick to the place for a week or ten days. In the meantime I'm expecting to get a postcard with a stamp affixed showing another shark which I am to deliver to a certain attorney who has just returned from the East.

George Vest, in the crow's nest, and what he's doing there has me perplexed. But he insists that a few days ago when I wasted two minutes talking to Ed. Yost that right in front of me was a ten-dollar bill, and it was so close I couldn't see it. So, being a good friend, he tries to get a wireless across the street and he got his wires crossed. But he did manage to get across to the ten dollars. What comforting information.

Maybe it is always cool in Santa Ana but I found Jimmy O'Riley favoring the shady side of the street. He insisted he was enjoying every minute of it. He only stayed a minute.

If something happens to your car and you have to stop, you can leave your car on the pavement, but if you do you violate the traffic regulations, invite danger, and a lawsuit, in which you hold the losing hand. Such a situation nearly caused a bad accident recently, when the driver neglected to take his car entirely off the pavement, which is required by the traffic rules. The driver of the approaching car got by with a bent fender, but it was a close call.

Talking with an orange grower yesterday who had decided that there was no virtue in complacency, and that if you wanted anything you had to fight for it. He said the valencia orange grower could get almost anything he wanted if he had the courage to present his demand, and insist on it. He paid a tribute to the group which last year brought forward the orange juice situation and demanded an improvement, and pointed to the price this year and that paid last year. He said cooperation was all right if it came from both sides. To him it was the same proposition as a gentleman's agreement, but you had to have two gentlemen to the agreement There is an old song entitled: "We Shall Know Each Other Better When the Mists Have Rolled Away." In this juice price controversy the grower is indebted to a certain influence entirely unknown to the controversy for the price improvement.

Well, the day's ruined. Got into an argument with Les Fountain and we're still friends
